BROTHER'S STRANGE ACT

Found Unconscious in Gas-Filled Room

More Than Likely They Will Both Die--No Explanation Offered of the Incident.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—What may have been the result of a carefully planned suicide compact in which two young men deliberately set about to take their own lives or what is more likely a lamentable accident, which may result fatally for the two youths was brought to light this morning when Daniel and Harry Harwick were found unconscious in their room at 170 Henry street, with gas flowing from an open valve.

Overcome by Fumes

Harry, the young brother, was found lying across his bed in a position which would indicate that he might have risen and made every effort to turn out the gas but had failed to find the jet in the darkness and groped about until he was overcome by the fumes. The older brother, Daniel, was found apparently in the same position in which he had retired.

Both Were in Good Spirits

Daniel is employed as a carpenter and works under J. B. Lee, at whose home the two have been staying. He said he felt tired last evening and went to his room at 6 o'clock, ostensibly to go to bed. Harry sat with the family in the parlor and listened to the playing and singing of Mrs. Lee until 9:30 when he too, went to his room. Both boys seemed in their usual good spirits and neither had spoken of any trouble of any kind whatsoever.

In some parts of the city the gas became very dim and in certain instances went out at approximately 9:40 o'clock and one theory is that while Harry was undressing the light went out and he

JAIL YAWNS FOR THIS TEXAN

Highway Robber Who Escaped From Prison Must Go Back and Serve Out Term.

Joseph Wall, alias Harry Hall, alleged murderer and highway robber, is at the city prison enroute to the penitentiary at Fort Worth, Texas, to complete a forty-year sentence on a charge of highway robbery, he having escaped from that institution in 1903.

Wall was convicted of murder, but on a technicality the verdict was reversed in the Supreme Court. He was out on bonds pending a retrial of his case when he committed highway robbery. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to forty years in the prison at Fort Worth. Deputy Sheriff McRae arrived in Oakland last night with the prisoner, who

CALEB POWERS, WHO WAS FOUR TIMES TRIED FOR COMPLICITY IN THE MURDER OF WILLIAM GOEBEL. HE WAS PARDONED TODAY.

CALEB POWERS AND HOWARD PARDONED

Were Accused of Complicity in Murder of 'Goebel'

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 13.—By announcing the pardon today of Caleb Powers and James Howard, Governor Wilson closed the last chapter in one of the most noted criminal cases in the history of this State in which people all over the United States have formally expressed their interest by signing petitions for pardon.

Eight Years Ago.

In the closing days of January, eight years ago, while the contest of William Goebel for the gubernatorial seat occupied by Governor Taylor was being held, Goebel was shot, dying later from his wound.

The shot was believed to have come from a half open window of the Secretary of State's office and as Caleb Powers was then filling that position, suspicion was at once directed toward him and his arrest allowed.

Four Times Tried.

Four times has Powers been put on trial for his life on the charge of complicity in the murder of the first governor resulting in conviction and sentence, death being the penalty in two trials.

On the fourth trial which came after he was arrested in Reno, on telegraphic information sent out to the Texas officials, McRae says that a peculiarity of the codes in Fort Worth and throughout Texas is that there is no law against jail breaking. A prisoner may take any method of securing his release without danger of punishment on that score. Wall was placed in close confinement.

HER HUSBAND, SIX CHILDREN AND SELF

Threw Bomb! To Kill Honolulu Police Chief

HONOLULU, June 13.—An attempt to assassinate Chief of Detectives Taylor and his wife was made early today. A dynamite bomb was exploded outside the window of their bedroom. The force of the explosion shattered a large water tank, throwing the heavy timbers a distance of fifty feet, and destroyed the back porch and outside staircase of the house. The main building, however, was not damaged, and neither of its occupants was injured.

There is no clew to the perpetrators of the outrage, though Chief Taylor's life has often been threatened by Chinese gamblers.

DELEGATIONS ARRIVING FROM ALL THE STATES

Allies Declare They Will Battle to the Last Ditch

CHICAGO, June 13.—Republican delegations arrived today from several of the most important States accompanied by bands and bearing flags, and "favorite son" banners are gliding to Chicago the picturesque touches of color and noise which are an essential part of a national gathering. The delegations in to-day are from New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Enthusiastic Delegation.

The confident enthusiasm of the Ohio delegation was no greater than the demonstrative loyalty of the Pennsylvanians. Most of the Pennsylvanians arriving today are from the Pittsburgh district and are members of the club organized in the interest of Senator Knox whose headquarters today were crowded with supporters from home.

The Knox Acclaim.

The Philadelphia contingent of delegates and supporters, 350 strong are expected in tomorrow and will add their voices to the Knox acclaim. The Ohio visitors are naturally in the happiest frame of mind and are confident in their expressed belief that nothing can now prevent the nomination of Secretary Taft on the first ballot.

Interest in New York.

The arrival of the New York delegation in a special train was awaited with special interest. The declaration by Governor Hughes yesterday that under no circumstances would he accept nomination for the vice-presidency and that his position with regard to the presidency remained the same—in that the delegates were responsible to their constituents and not to him—have had the effect of focusing particular attention upon the New York delegation, especially with reference to the attitude to be taken by them for the vice-presidency.

Will Have a Caucus.

The New York delegation probably will hold a caucus late today or Monday to discuss the situation. There are leaders of the party here who believe that the vice-presidency should go to some eastern State, and as New York is regarded as a debatable ground it is believed by the delegation from that State can wield influence in the choice of a second place candidate. So far, however, the delegation is instructed only to present the name of Governor Hughes for the presidency.

WEATHER REPORT.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Forecast for San Francisco and vicinity: Cloudy tonight and Sunday, with fog, fresh south wind. Santa Clara Valley: Fair tonight and Sunday with fog in the morning. Light north wind, changing to south. Sacramento Valley: Fair tonight and Sunday; fresh south wind. San Joaquin Valley: Fair tonight and Sunday; light west wind. Southern California: Cloudy tonight; fair Sunday; light south wind.

A GHASTLY SCENE OF DEATH

Mother Who Did the Awful Deed Suffered From Frenzied Dementia.

Bodies All Found in a Pool of Blood--Youngest Baby Lived Only for a Short Time.

CADILLAC, Mich., June 13.—Eight persons, all of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cooper, were murdered some time last night, probably by the wife and mother, who has been insane. In every instance the victims were killed with a bullet through the head. The dead are: Daniel Cooper, 48 years old. Mrs. Cooper, 45 years old. Inez, aged 11. Fred, aged 17. Harry, aged 14. Samuel, aged 10. Georgiana, aged 5. Florence, aged 1½ years.

Story of Tragedy

When Mrs. Cooper's mother and other neighbors entered the home on Chapin street this morning, about which there was no sign of life, bodies of the victims were scattered all about. Some were in their beds and others were on the floor. Mrs. Cooper lay across the body of the baby with an empty revolver beside her. It is believed Mrs. Cooper committed the murders and then killed herself. She was once confined in an asylum and for some time has been brooding over the fact that Cooper was out of work. A few days ago she is reported to have said she would "end it all."

Fred Cooper was still alive when found.

OBJECTS TO ATTENTIONS OF RIVAL; IS BEATEN ON STREET

Broken Home Revealed in Woman's Trial for Disturbing Peace

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—With the sentencing of Mrs. Lena Wise on a term of thirty days in the county jail by Police Judge Shortall this morning was revealed the story of a rival in the affections of a young wife which has caused a rupture between herself and her husband.

The husband, George Wise, a blacksmith and the couple, who live at 1703 Geary street, have been in the habit of taking their meals at a nearby restaurant.

Rival in Affections.

A waiter whose last name is unknown, but who is called Saul, is said to have alienated the affections of Mrs. Wise and about a week ago hired a room in the same house where the couple lodge. His presence there caused a dispute and after several days Mrs. Wise complained that she was ill and accordingly the husband sent her and her two children to Sonoma for a short holiday.

Husband Beaten.

Not receiving any word from her, he journeyed up there last Sunday and found

MEN OF AFFAIRS TO BACK $1,500,000 HOTEL ENTERPRISE FOR OAKLAND

Business Community Gives Assurance That the Public-Spirited Merchants and Citizens Will Do All in Their Power to Further the Early Completion of Great Caravansary.

As the time draws near for the complete plans of the Bankers' Hotel to arrive from New York much interest is being shown along Broadway by those interested in the project.

A letter has been received within the last week from H. J. Hardenberg, the architect, in New York City, stating that he has expressed the revised plans to the coast and feels certain that they are now ready for the contractors to make their estimates and bids from. Since this news was received from Architect Hardenberg, renewed interest is being shown by the stockholders of the hotel, and much time was given this morning along Broadway to the discussion of the hotel.

Building Material Is Now Cheaper

The present low price of building material is one of the big factors worthy of consideration according to Layman. Structural steel has not been so low in price for years as it is now, having dropped several points within the last few days. In his opinion the bids should be let immediately so that advantage can be had of the prices now prevailing. This, in his judgment would be as good financing as has characterized the undertaking from the start.

It has been decided to award the contract as a whole. It was first proposed to let each bid separately, as the structural iron, to one contractor, the steel work, to another, and so on. But this idea has been abandoned. When the plans arrive contracts for the whole will be asked for and the contractor who is awarded the work will let the sub-contracts.

Already the foundations are in place and awaiting for the upper structure, with a surplus of nearly $100,000 on hand. Numerous business men this morning expressed themselves anxious to subscribe for stock that had not been purchased, so promising is the project. "Aside from the money to be saved by building now," said W. J. Layman, "this morning's work should be rushed because of the actual need of such a hostelry as the Bankers' Hotel will be. I distinctly remember the class of people who were attracted to Oakland in the old days of the Grand Central and Tubbs Hotel. They were men of means and with them came their friends. As a direct result of the class of people who were brought here on account of those world-wide known hotels there are many old scattered mansions.

"From a hostelry like the Bankers' Hotel will be there is bound to be a certain percentage of the guests who will be attracted to the city and as before will build homes. The good coming from a hotel of the first order, ramifies the whole community. The work should be rushed without question for the common good of all."

Extra Stock Wanted By the Subscribers

It is estimated that the extra stock that is wanted by many of those already interested, is from 30 to 50 per cent more than they have already subscribed for. It is a compliment, according to W. J. Layman, the real estate broker, who was discussing the hotel project this morning, and who is personally interested in the undertaking, paid to the subscribers of the stock to think that such interest is being shown in the project and stock so well paid up, with the country not yet out of a terrible financial panic. According to Layman's work on the hotel should be rushed as soon as the contracts are let, because of the time lost in revising the plans.

Has Long Been Needed by the City

Hugo Abrahamson, of Abrahamson Brothers, dry goods, Thirteenth and Washington—I am glad that the Bankers' Hotel is progressing so rapidly, and that the bids for the construction of the hotel as a whole are to be let within a short time. I subscribed for $15,000 worth of the stock, knowing that a tourists' hotel was needed in Oakland and would be an incentive to draw many people here who are accustomed to living in the southern part of the State on account of the splendid hotel accommodations. In my opinion the work on the building can not be pressed too rapidly.

Merchants Will Reap the Benefit

C. J. Heeseman, of C. J. Heeseman & Company, Washington street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets—The Bankers' Hotel should be the greatest pride of Oakland people. It means the bringing to our midst hundreds of tourists who go to other parts of the State at the present time, owing to the lack of hotel accommodations in Alameda county. Oakland should be made the banner city for the traveling public and as soon as the Bankers' Hotel is completed the merchants of Oakland will commence to note a wonderful difference in the volume of business. The work on the hotel should go ahead rapidly and it is gratifying to know that the plans are near completion and bids are to be asked for in the near future. Every citizen of Oakland should lend his support to the project.

Will Be Valuable As Business Asset

M. J. Keller, of M. J. Keller & Company, clothing, Washington and Thirteenth streets—The Bankers' Hotel, in my opinion, will be one of the greatest assets to Oakland and Alameda county. The hotel should be ready for guests within two years. This side of the bay is growing rapidly and we need hotels of a high class.

Wants Labor to Lend Helping Hand

Charles Jurgens, capitalist—As to building the Bankers' Hotel, if they can get the money and mechanics will be reasonable in their demands. It will be a good thing for the city at large to begin building as soon as possible. But while thousands of mechanics are idle, and prices falling in materials, it is time that the laboring men did a little to ease burdens. I am at this moment paying $8 a day for bricklayers and get about half a day's work for the money. In Los Angeles the Bricklayers' Union members have voted themselves to accept $5 a day for their work. Here lumber prices have fallen very materially from the prices a year ago—why should not labor prices?

Time Is Ripe For the Big Hotel

W. S. Harlow, real estate agent—Now is the time to begin the Bankers' Hotel when labor is plentiful, unemployed and needy. It will take at least two years to complete such a large structure and by the time it is finished and furnished ready for occupancy there will undoubtedly be more demands for hotel accommodations than the present ones can provide in addition to the Bankers' Hotel. Besides, there is a large class of Eastern people that annually comes to California that demands the very best hotel service money can buy. While we have a number of small hotels, and a couple of modern ones of considerable extent, still the fact remains that Oakland should have such a hotel as the $2,500,000 structure ought to be.

Will Add to General Prosperity

W. B. Sneathen, manager for the shoe house of F. Searns & Company—Work on the Bankers' Hotel should be rushed and the hostelry ready for the public within the next two years. The completion of the hotel will add greatly to all economic interests on this side of the bay. The country at large is interested in the project, owing to the wide publicity given the matter at the time of its conception. Already it is one of the best advertised hotels in California and the people are merely waiting its completion to occupy it.

Work Ought to Be Rushed Ahead

Paul T. Carroll, clothier and hatter,

1006 Washington street—As a stockholder I am greatly interested in the rapid construction of the Bankers' Hotel. It is a satisfaction to know that the plans are so near completion and that the bids will be advertised for within the next sixty days, as is the intention of those who have the project in hand. My interests in the hotel are not prompted wholly by the amount of stock I own, but as a business man of Oakland I feel that everybody will be benefited by having so splendid a hostelry on this side of the bay. In my judgment the work should be rushed as soon as the contract is let, with the idea of having the Bankers' Hotel ready for guests inside of two years.

Will Attract the Custom of Tourists

James P. Taylor, of the James P. Taylor Coat Company—The action of the bankers in going ahead with their hotel building is encouragement to others to put up modern structures. Oakland has had great need for such a hotel in the past and will have greater need for one in the future. A hotel of that size will attract tourists and others to this city. Another large hotel in Oakland will be a help to the new ones lately completed for the reason that when tourists come here and cannot obtain accommodations at one first-class place, they probably can at another, and so on. The more large hotels a city has, the more tourists and traveling people will be attracted to it. Oakland can be made the tourists' headquarters of the San Francisco bay cities.

Railroads Should Boost the Hotel

F. B. Kimball, manager Kimball Clothing Company—If the Bankers' Hotel can have the support of the railroads running into Oakland, I don't see how it can help but do a flourishing business and be a big credit to the town. The railroads can be good boosters for the hotel. Instead of exploiting the San Francisco hotels, get the railroads to boost the big hotel at their terminal. Oakland is the terminal of the eastern railroads and the Bankers' Hotel will be the finest thing of all for travelers coming to San Francisco bay cities.

Great Uplift for Whole Community

William P. Hook, furniture dealer—Why everybody wants and expects the Bankers' Hotel to be erected as soon as possible. If our moneyed men went ahead and take chances this city will never be built up as it should be. It will lag so far behind other cities as to become a laughing stock. It won't do for our men of means always to wait for 9 per cent on investments. That is not the way enterprising cities are built up. We cannot expect outside capital to come here and invest unless we show outsiders that we are alive to our advantages and are willing to do something for our own city.

What have we to show for the wave of prosperity which struck us after the calamity which destroyed San Francisco in April, 1906? Three or four really first-class, modern buildings. Coincident with them have come abnormally high rents, increased taxes and a considerable increase of population. But high taxes and high rents, without substantial improvements do not appeal to Eastern capitalists. Just look at the old-fashioned one and two-story buildings on our principal business street—we are ashamed to have visitors look at them. A millionaire carpet manufacturer from the East came into my store not long ago after walking up Broadway from the Seventh street depot. He asked me where the city's principal business street was. I said to him "You have just walked up it for four blocks." His face told me that he was disgusted with the town. He expected to find a section of this city of 200,000 people with many eight and ten-story buildings in it.

We ought to have the very best hotel here that money can procure. It will prove the forerunner of other important building enterprises. Suppose it only pays 2 or 3 per cent for two or three years. That is all is expected from such investments in such enterprising cities as Seattle, Tacoma,

Portland, Los Angeles and others I might mention. But the hotels erected in those cities eventually pay big profits to their stockholders besides benefiting all other kinds of business. Besides the money spent in their construction goes into local circulation and stimulates local trade of all kinds. Yes, let the Bankers' Hotel go up as soon as possible, for it will prove a great uplift for the city of Oakland.

Will Be Profit Paying Enterprise

J. C. Doherty, manager Brittain & Co., hardware dealers—When I read THE TRIBUNE last night I thought the people building the hotel had lots of courage. I would like to see them go ahead on the building. The population of Oakland and the population that daily comes into this city will surely make a large first-class hotel a splendid paying investment for its builders.

Great Good to City of Oakland

R. H. Magill, Broadway Insurance man—The Oakland bankers are certainly making a valuable move. A good hotel, such as they will erect, does more good for a city than anything else I know of. We can't have too many good hotels. They will advertise Oakland to a great extent. A traveling man gets his impression of a city from its hotels and is not slow in telling his friends at home and on the road about it. I have traveled all over the country myself and know what a valuable asset a good hotel is to a city.

Should Be Civic Center of Oakland

Naph B. Greensfelder, of the Bank of Germany and president of the Financial Underwriters—The Bankers' Hotel should be the civic center of Oakland like the Palace Hotel used to be the civic center of San Francisco. I mean by that that outside business men should make the Bankers' Hotel their meeting place with local merchants and residents when they come here for business or pleasure. The Palace, in the old days, was the place to meet every business representative who came to San Francisco bay and I would like to see the Bankers' Hotel attain that distinction and make Oakland their civic and commercial headquarters. If the bankers and real estate men will boost their own proposition by putting their money into it, I know the merchants will stand back of them with what support they can render. Oakland merchants should make it a point to buy from traveling men coming to the Bankers' Hotel and not telephone to San Francisco to meet them at the St. Francis, Fairmont or some other place. The Oakland bankers and merchants should count on the county as well as the city and the civic spirit of the country will be valuable assistance to the city. People outside of Oakland in Alameda county will receive many benefits from the Bankers' Hotel.

Faith in Future of This City

Attorney Herbert L. Breed—The announcement that work will soon be started on the Bankers' Hotel shows the faith that the united bankers of Oakland have in the city's future. It shows that they are willing to invest their own means in that which will be a great credit to the city. The hotel will be a valuable monument to Oakland, and its promoters and backers should receive the support of every resident of this city.

Right Spirit Is Shown by Promoters

J. J. McElroy, real estate—It is to be regretted that the hotel has not already been constructed. I know there are many kinds of difficulties in the way of the carrying out of such great projects. I know that delays must be experienced. I am glad that there now seems to be an end to the annoyances which have, thus far, been encountered and that the plans, revised and approved, are almost within reach. Even then, there are other delays to be expected but they will eventually be outlived because I am satisfied that the right spirit dominates the men at the head of the project. Behind them stand the people of this community and there is, no doubt in the minds of those people as to what should be done in the premises. The proposed hotel may not pay expenses for the first year or for a certain period, but that is the case with many enterprises at the present time. Capital always goes ahead of development. That is the case in hundreds of enterprises and there is no reason why there should be an exception in the matter of hotel building. Oakland has long needed hotels and she has finally got as many first-class hostels as has any city of its size in the country. All of them are full and all of them are doing a good business. The great desideratum has been a hotel on a large scale—such an one as will accommodate hundreds of people from season to season, as is the case with some of the hotels in the southern part of the country. This would be of such great advantage to this city that the men who are undertaking to supply it are to be commended.

ended and I know they have the support of all the people in the community.

Another Step in March of Progress

Robert A. Jackson, Real Estate.—There is nothing which can so help Oakland, at the present time, as a hotel on the proportions which obtain in some of the hostels in the southern part of the State. Those hotels are patronized largely by people from the eastern part of the country and do a good business. There is no comparison, however, to be made between the climate of that section and that of Oakland and the other towns and villages on this side of the bay. Once the new hotel got opened, there will be hundreds of people to fill it and each one of those will have something good to say regarding the climate, the natural beauty and the wholesomeness of this section of the State. We have, at the present time, several hundred families from the east quartered, season after season, at the local hotels. They have had experience in the southern part of the country with its excessive heat during the day and the chilliness and the dampness of the night which prevent many of them from venturing beyond the door of their apartments. This has impelled them to the conclusion that Oakland is the place on the Pacific Coast which has an equable climate in which there may be a thorough enjoyment of life. The new hotel means that Oakland will take another step forward in a manner that has been surprising to the State and, with the new hotel, we will be able to bring eastern people to reside here in a manner which will cause the cities on the south to regret that they were not located in this favored region.

Go Ahead and Build at Once

J. C. Downie, manager for Whittier-Puller & Company—It is a good plan to go ahead and build the Bankers' Hotel at once. I took stock in the project, Oakland is all right. Give us a big, first-class hotel and an improved water front and this town will boom.

Proposed Hotel Is Wise Measure

W. R. Birmingham, miller and capitalist—If the Bankers' Hotel people will go ahead and erect the proposed structure as soon as possible it will give a lot of work to local mechanics and laborers who are now idle. The money will be at once put into circulation, and the hotel is needed. If the building of the hotel is delayed until so-called "good times" returns, it is probable that the town will have so filled up with people and there will be so many tourists coming in that we won't have accommodations for them.

Will Be Given a Heartly Support

Attorney J. A. Kennedy—Good for the bankers and everybody connected with the enterprise. They have plenty of faith in the future of Oakland and will certainly get the support of the people on this side of the bay who have wanted to see somebody go ahead and erect a good, first-class hotel that will land the tourist trade.

No Advertisement Could Be Better

Fred T. Wood, real estate man—Nothing that I know of can boost or advertise Oakland better than first-class accommodations for tourists and the traveling public. Outside capital will come to Oakland more readily as soon as easterners learn of this city and county. The Bankers' Hotel will undoubtedly be made the headquarters of people coming to San Francisco bay for business and pleasure for the reason that Oakland affords better accommodations to the railroads. The bankers are showing the right spirit in giving Oakland such a hotel and it could be given the support of every business man on this side of the bay.

Will Give Many Needed Employment

Attorney B. J. Wyman: The building of the Bankers' Hotel will give work to a great many mechanics who are now in need of employment. The hotel is just what Oakland has been in need of in size can have too many good hotels. The past. I do not think a city of this

Improvement That Is Help to All

E. C. Ambrose, Grocer, Ninth and Washington street.—Any improvement in a community is for the benefit of all. The building of the Bankers' Hotel will be of untold value to the City of Oakland and should be undertaken without delay.

Regrets That There Was Necessary Delay

B. Berceovich, Cigars—I am delighted to know that, in as short a time as possible, work will be commenced on the new hotel. I am sorry that it could not have been commenced long ago, but we all know that there are to be delays met with in such undertakings. The new hotel will be one of the best advertisements that we could secure at the present time. Look at the list of arrivals at the hotels now. They are three times as numerous as they were three years ago. Give us the new hotel and in less than half of the time we will make a still better showing.

Hopes There Will Be No Further Delay

J. T. Moran, Clothing Merchant.—I hope the Bankers' Hotel project will not be unnecessarily delayed in the fulfillment of its construction. Oakland needs the stimulating effect of such a big improvement. The subscribers to the stock, I feel sure, can afford to go ahead with the project.

Will Give Us a Standing Abroad

Harry G. Williams, president Oakland Merchants' Exchange—Nothing could be more beneficial to this city than to begin building the Bankers' Hotel at this time. I am on comparatively a small stockholder in the enterprise, but own really near the hotel site, so am not inclined to give advice or criticism, as I might be put down as one seeking to further self-interest. But in this matter I am actuated solely by regard for the general welfare of Oakland. I see Eastern tourists and other folk get off trains at Fourteenth and Franklin streets and walk past the site of the proposed hotel. When they see the excavation they ask what it is for and express surprise that the building is not going up.

Look at the rebuilding of the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, it has given new life to that section of the city. It is also a notice to the whole world that San Francisco men of means have faith in the future of their town. It would be the same for Oakland if the Bankers' Hotel were built as speedily as possible and opened for accommodation of guests. It would give us a standing abroad as a city capable of housing big excursion parties, wealthy tourists and any number of

RAZOR CUTS THREATEN DEATH

Infuriated Sailor Attacks Bartender and Is Subdued With Difficulty by the Police.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Infuriated at some fancied slight that had been put upon him in a neighboring saloon, John Hill, a sailor, living at 5134 Pacific street, armed with a razor, made an attack upon George Jacobs, a bartender, at the corner of Montgomery and Pacific streets at 4:30 this morning, and when several men tried to restrain him beat them off until he was reached by the police.

After Jacobs had been cut in the head with the weapon in the hands of the infuriated seaman, he went in search of a policeman and found Officers Sullivan and Brown, who accompanied him back to the scene. When they arrived they found Hill endeavoring to cut George, Romano and William Shears, who were doing their best to dodge the weapon which he was wielding back and forth. At the sight of the police the man fled down Pacific street to Sansome and over to Jackson, where he was finally overtaken and placed in custody after giving battle to the officers. He was booked at the city prison on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

NO CHANCE AT ALL TO WIN ON APPEAL

Notice was filed yesterday with the Superior Court that the proponents of the will of the late Joseph Boardman are to appeal from the decision of Superior Judge Waste, who set aside the will on the grounds that Boardman was mentally incompetent when he drew it up. The proponents claim that the evidence was sufficient and that Judge Waste's ruling was against the law in the face of a number of exceptions that were made by the proponents.

Judge Waste's decision leaves practically no grounds for an appeal. The proponents of the will never had a case and stand absolutely no chance in appeal.

visitors or transients.

I have faith in Mr. W. W. Garthwaite, president of the Bankers' Hotel Association, and I feel assured that he will see the project carried out at the earliest possible moment. It will be a red letter day for Oakland when the Bankers' Hotel is opened for business. Speed the day!

An Impetus to Commercial Affairs

Fred A. Campbell, Real Estate.—I do not know of any other thing to give Oakland an impetus at this time as a big hotel. I am not reflecting on the hotels which we have here at this time, for the reason that I know that they are run in an excellent manner and that they control as much of the best tourist trade from the east as they can accommodate. But a hotel of the type popularly known as the "tourist" which can accommodate hundreds of people is greatly to be desired. It is a pleasant thing to know that such an hotel is to be provided by local capital. I have heard this matter referred to in various parts of the State and in every instance, the reference was coupled with commendation. There never has been any regret when a tourist hotel has been constructed where tourists like to assemble and the history of the hotel business of this city shows that tourists for years have been making this place their home in the winter and summer alike.

PROPHET WANTS TO HANG

Woman Disciple, Who Tells of Spiritual Struggles, Offers to Get Rope for Elijah Skaggs.

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 13.—Elijah Skaggs, who claims to be the re-incarnation of Elijah, the prophet, sent here as the vicarious atonement for those who do not believe in Christ, was put on trial yesterday on a charge of attack on Mrs. Margaret Irene Taylor of Dallas, Texas, a disciple.

At the preliminary hearing told of a physical struggle but on taking the stand today she declared the attack was merely spiritual and in accordance with a covenant made between her and Skaggs that he might be hanged and rise on the third day. She offered to get a rope if the people would hang him there and then.

Cross-examination did not shake her story. She was arrested for perjury and is in the county jail. Skaggs declared he was guilty in his heart and was ready to hang, but would plead not guilty because he was not to be hanged and did not wish to go to the penitentiary.

TEAMSTER MAY DIE FROM AN INJURY

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—While endeavoring to get his team out of the way of a street car which was coming up a hill, Thomas Keenan, a teamster employed by the Pacific Coast Coal company, was thrown from his team to the street almost directly under the front of a street car at 8:30 o'clock this morning at California street and Market street, and probably fatally injured.

Keenan's head struck on the sharp rim of the wheel and he was kicked several times by the horses. He was taken to the Harbor hospital, where it was found that he had suffered three extensive lacerated wounds of the scalp and a possible fracture of the skull, as well as internal injuries.

Later in the morning he was removed to his home at 22 Bryant street.

Delmonico Golden Ice Cream will be made again tomorrow

We have been requested to make another batch of the famous golden ice cream after the recipe of Delmonico, New York.

And we have decided to do so and will be ready to make delivery tomorrow at any time you say.

We will provide enough for a normal demand but if it is at all warm Sunday, get your order in early or we may run out of it.

This is the most difficult and one of the most expensive frozen desserts it is possible to make and we will not be able to furnish it very often.

It is of a rich golden color and wonderfully delicious and when served in bricks ("gold bricks") is very beautiful. It also comes combined with crushed strawberries but in this form does not hold its beautiful golden color.

The price is 75c a quart or 80c a brick (enough for 8 people). It will be delivered free at any hour you say, tomorrow.

TO THOSE WHO HAD THIS WONDERFUL DESSERT LAST SUNDAY—

We will furnish another "special" tomorrow called Orange Frappe, an ice cream with whipped cream frozen into it. The price will be 75c a quart. The idea in furnishing this additional "special" is simply to supply those who may prefer to have something different from Delmonico ice cream, which we served last Sunday, also.

TELEPHONE YOUR ORDERS IN EARLY—DON'T DELAY A MINUTE.

ARMIS BURNED BY EXPLODING OIL

Fluid Unexpectedly Flares Up as Engineer Is Engaged in Starting Fires.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Parz, an engineer employed by the Standard Oil Company, was burned by an explosion of oil in the furnace of a boiler at the Standard Oil Company's refinery at the corner of the city of Oakland.

The explosion was caused by the negligence of the engineer, who was engaged in starting fires in the furnace of a boiler. The oil flared up and spread itself over his arm and hand.

His clothes caught fire from the flames but he rushed to the water trough and succeeded in putting them out, and then went to the Harbor hospital for treatment.

"DARLING HELEN" CAUSES TROUBLE

Wife Declares She Found Letter to "Dear One" in Husband's Pocket.

Mrs. Matilda Burt has commenced suit for divorce against William Burt, whom she charges with cruelty. Mrs. Burt claims that last fall her husband sent her for divorce, naming "Helen" as the woman he was to marry.

She says that the public given this action, which was later dismissed, caused her great mental suffering. Mrs. Burt also charges her husband with neglecting attention to a woman he called "Helen." She says that she found an unfinished letter in his pocket, in which he addressed this "Helen" as "darling" and "dear one." The couple were married in 1884 and have three children.

ASK THAT MONEY BE SPENT HERE

Keep Capital at Home Urge Speakers at Niles Meeting.

"Keeping money at home is good business policy," was the statement made last night by E. Charles Gross, secretary of the financial and industrial committee of the Alameda county industries development meetings in the Odd Fellows Hall at Niles.

Dr. Gross said that improvement clubs in San Francisco are making protests against the plan to build a new fire protection system in the East. He declared that the same rule applies on this side of the bay, where there are worthy propositions that need capital.

The speaker mentioned several enterprises near Niles that were worthy of attention from Alameda county investors.

Investment Plan.

He said that every young man should have a plan for his future. He said that a man should have a plan for his future. He said that a man should have a plan for his future.

WOMAN WHO TRIED TO KILL IS SENT TO ASYLUM

Mrs. Henrietta Spencer of 2003 Milvia street, Berkeley, was committed to the Stockton State Hospital for the Insane by Superior Judge Ogden this morning.

Mrs. Spencer was arrested yesterday afternoon by police officers on a charge of attempting to kill her husband, William Spencer, who she alleged that her mother threatened to end her life with a knife.

Mrs. Spencer was found in a rooming house in Berkeley yesterday morning and found her mother standing over her, ready to kill her with a knife.

This morning Judge Ogden asked Mrs. Spencer why she desired to take her mother's life. She said that her mother threatened to end her life with a knife.

OAKLAND MAN LANDS MONSTER YELLOW TAIL

AVAILON, June 13.—The largest yellow tail caught in the past five years was brought in by C. L. Smith, of the well known firm of Smith Bros., Oakland.

Smith hooked the fish just off Pebble Beach, and the struggle began in earnest. The fish headed straight out to sea and took out about 700 feet of line before the angler could stop him.

As soon as Mr. Smith started to reel in the fish began a series of circles that taxed the sportsman's ability to the utmost.

After circling for a few minutes the fish headed out to sea again, taking nearly all the line.

Finally the angler succeeded in bringing him within twenty-five feet of the launch, when he went under the launch, splitting the pole, but Mr. Smith finally succeeded in bringing the fish to gaff after twenty-three minutes of the hardest kind of exertion.

When the fish was weighed at Avalon it tipped the scales at forty-five and a half pounds.

When the fish was used, otherwise the angler would have received a gold button from the Catalina Light Tackle Club.

CHARGE OF ARSON PLACED AGAINST HIM

William M. Darcul who was arrested on suspicion of being a contractor for a number of incendiary fires in West Oakland, was formally charged with arson at the city prison today.

Darcul was taken into custody Saturday night shortly after a fire in the basement of Jackson Brothers' drug store, at Fourteenth and Market streets.

With minimum trouble and cost biscuit, cake and pastry are made fresh, clean and greatly superior to the ready-made, dry, found-in-the-shop variety.

As there was not a sufficient channel in the appropriation to dredge from the mouth of the harbor up to Fallon street, the harbor committee decided that this work should be done in a different way. It was observed if the government could dredge out the shoal that exists between Chestnut and Fallon streets, the water would be deepened to the level of Fallon street, thus allowing vessels to reach the wharves and at the same time straighten the channel from Fallon street to the wharves which now exists. This will make a channel 500 feet wide, or 200 feet wider than at present and with a depth of 10 feet. The subject of this project is now being formulated that bids may be asked for that work and as soon as the bids are accepted the work will begin.

KNALSON'S KNITTING CO., Amsterdam, N. Y.

FEE, Mgr.

San Francisco Redivivus.

It is gratifying to see the outside recognition and appreciation of San Francisco's recuperation from her disaster of two years ago. Articles and interviews are multiplying in the Eastern and foreign press to show that tourists and those who come here on business are astonished that so much has been accomplished.

Many who thus express themselves visited the city immediately or soon after its destruction, when thousands of its homes were in ashes and its fine business structures were in twisted heaps that had fallen out upon the streets and blocked them from passage. The general impression then was that it would require more than two years to clear away the wreckage, let alone making a showing on the tremendous task of rehabilitation.

But two years see not only the debris cleaned up, but better streets laid in the downtown districts, and a large proportion reconstructed and occupied. As to some of its sections one would never know that a catastrophe had so recently overwhelmed the city, and the full extent of the disaster is manifest nowhere.

Some of the uncertainties that followed the destruction of San Francisco are being solved. There is no longer any doubt that the main business districts are to be where they were before. There may be an increasing trend to the south of Market street, but that had set in already, as a necessity from the overgrowth of other sections.

The larger retail section will extend as far down town as before, though natural expansion will extend it farther out Market street and up the streets that debouch from that great thoroughfare.

The fate of Van Ness avenue, when the larger hegira back to former locations takes place, is now being discussed. It is not likely to resume its former grandeur as a residence boulevard, and its popularity as a business street was never as complete as many supposed it would be. As real estate is of high value along there, the ultimate character of the improvements will have to be left to future developments and trends.

The wonder on the part of the observant visitor must be, not only that San Francisco has done so much in the direction of high-class reconstruction, but that she has done it in the face of such mighty obstacles. The visitor has been regaled by magazines and his home papers with the news that San Francisco was in the hands of an organized banditti; that her principal industry was the plundering of her ruins and ruined; that her people were never agreed as to what should be done; that her finances were exhausted; that all efforts at rebuilding and re-establishing former enterprises were subject to the whims and capriciousness of irresponsible power; that thuggery and murder were of the commonest occurrence; that wealthy estates and individuals, whose substance lay in city property, were bankrupt and could not rebuild; that, finally, when a move was made against the corrupt city government, the people divided, and a great majority sympathized with the culprits.

The extent of the injury done San Francisco by the muck-rakers and the half-informed correspondents will never be known, but it must have been enormous. The frank surprise of everybody who now comes and is able to see and judge for himself is evidence of how San Francisco has been misjudged and her energies underestimated through immature and reckless press representation. Such undeserved injury is deplorable; but the discredit cast upon the city by that portion of her own press, which, knowing the facts, spread broadcast statements as to conditions that were the most malignant fiction, and published with the definite purpose of making a point for the discredited graft prosecution, was the least necessary and the most to be reprehended.

But every genuine friend of San Francisco and the Pacific Coast will take satisfaction from the fact that all this injurious misunderstanding is being corrected in such a natural and satisfactory manner.

The Eternal Mugwump.

The Springfield Republican, a journal of immense respectability but no political predilection, puts the two chief political parties of the country on a par thus: "Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan will stand for so many things in common that the voters will soon begin to search out the salient points of difference." Indicating that neither is up to standard, and suggesting that it will require study to determine which is least objectionable.

That is the ideal Mugwump attitude. All candidates of all parties that have a chance of success are unworthy; all policies are to be distrusted. Verily there is not an honest man in all the lot nor a sincere category of principles. They are indistinguishable in their political unloveliness.

But to others there really seems to be a difference. The Republican party has a practically unbroken constructive record of nearly fifty years. This embraces the country's greatest epochs. It covers the periods of the greatest prosperity. If all candidates and all platforms look alike to the Mugwump, they certainly cannot seem so to the hearty American citizen whose blood is normally circulating and whose digestion is unimpaired.

Even if there were similarities in the candidates and issues, the great difference in the line-up and in the general proposition would command notice.

On the one side is a standard-bearer who has made good, who has definite and matured policies, and who is not assisted to the same through vote-getting considerations. He is sane, safe and conservative in thought and action. And behind him is a party that has met all the great emergencies of the nation, and has the patriotism and the genius to meet those yet to arise.

Opposed to this candidate is a recurring minstrel. One who has twice before sung songs before an unenthusiastic people; one who has sought favor on issues that were disproved without the consideration of a test. His great embarrassment now is that he can devise for this occasion no new "policy" that will flashlight the country. And behind him is a disorganized and haphazard support, uncertain as to everything but following its leader, which it does on instinct and without seeing the way. If by a miracle or cataclysm it should win out it would not know what to do with its victory. It really seems that the Bryan fight is proceeding on a general assumption that it is not to result in victory, and hence that there is no use in wasting energy in figuring what to do after the fray is over.

But the Springfield Republican must be lonesome indeed. The only contingency that could make it happy is impossible of arising. A way can be devised by which both the leading political organization be defeated at one and the same time.

An Eastern paper avers that there is no north pole. Very likely the wood pulp trust has cornered it and carried it away.

The Case of Hoke Smith.

The spectacular reversal of political sentiment in Georgia is attracting much attention. Less than two years ago Hoke Smith was hailed as the State's greatest man. At least, he enjoyed an unusual popularity, being elected governor by a majority that laid a high-charactered though conservative rival on the political shelf with some violence.

Just the other day that was done to him which he did to the other. His vanquisher being a conservative, the inference is that the pendulum is swinging back, down there in Georgia.

Smith was elected governor on extreme radical issues. He found a considerable body of Georgians to be in favor of prohibition, and took up the issue with such vehemence that he made it a furore. He went in for more drastic railroad control than the most rabid reformer had yet advocated. The negroes had not been despoiled of their suffrage to the last limit; Hoke favored completing the job. And he was elected governor by a majority that indicated that he had struck some fine electrifying chords. But his popularity began to wane nine months ago, and the other day he was rather ingloriously defeated by a man who never had reform hysterics in his life; who has never been known to inveigh against railroads, even when that was the very popular thing to do, and who is believed not to be a last-ditcher in the matter of prohibition.

This reversal of form perhaps indicates two things. One, that the people are recovering from a political hysteria which had seized upon them and was sedulously "cultured" by demagogues and zealots; and the other, that the Hon. Hoke Smith has made the mistake of trying to play a sustained part. As a free lance, who merely had to point out how badly others were doing without being required to demonstrate that he could do better himself, Hoke was great. But he found it different when responsibility was shouldered.

He is of the Taft proportions, quick-witted, able to turn into political ready money any situation that suddenly evolves, and to project fads far beyond the point foreseen by their originators; and while the people were excited he was in his element. But when they cooled out and the thinking season set in, his popularity not only ceased to grow, but began to shrink. It was the same Hoke who came up for the same office with the same signs and sounds the other day; but not with the same result.

All of which is being commented upon from one end of the country to the other, as illustrating the fickleness of the masses politically, and the fleetness of fame won by methods such as Hoke's.

A squad of laborers while flushing a sewer on Sansome street yesterday found much jewelry. Here's a chance for some enterprising mining promoter to charter the sewer and get out a glowing prospectus.

Right now it looks like a case of whiskers for second place on the Republican ticket. Hughes and Fairbanks have been suggested for the place and both have lovely hirsute appendages adorning their stiff upperlips, also their adamant jaws.

It looks like Taft will simply romp home with the Nomination in the Grand National Republican Handicap which convenes in Chicago June 16.

Some of those things that were graced by the dignity of the name of booms recently seem to have fallen to the level of boomlets.

President Roosevelt is going to South Africa to shoot big game after his term expires. Strikes us that the President winged a lot of big game in the form of trusts in this country recently.

Because he talked too much in public, Senator Bailey of Texas will have to have an operation performed on his vocal chords. Probably the Senator used too many burning words.

CHOPPED UP PIANO AND CHASED WIFE IN STREET James Berryman Given 9-Month Sentence

ALAMEDA, June 13.—James Berryman, who is one of the best known tramping horsemen in the county, living at 2220 Santa Clara avenue, was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail for malicious mischief and ninety days for disturbing the peace, the latter sentence to take effect following the first, by Judge Tappan in the justice court this morning.

Berryman was arrested a few days ago on complaint of his wife, who told a pitiful story of mistreatment. According to Mrs. Berryman, her husband came home maddened by whiskey and proceeded to wreck the furniture in the home. She testified that he ruined a grand piano, chopped up all the beds, chairs and other articles of furniture in the house, and smashed a big range to pieces. When she declares he vowed that he would murder his wife and their four small children and chased the woman and her children down Santa Clara avenue until they took refuge in a Japanese store.

The prompt interference by the Japanese and an officer whom he called probably saved the lives of the wife and children. Judge Tappan severely lectured Berryman this morning and said the sentence would have been much more severe were it not for the prisoner's old age. The Berrymans have been married twenty-four years and the wife says that their married life has always been happy with the exception of the period of drunkenness which her husband has been accustomed to go on for many years.

In sentencing Berryman Judge Tappan said: "This is a pathetic case. I cannot understand how an old man like you could ever allow himself to become so crazy with whiskey that he should do such a crazy thing as to smash up the furniture and then chase his wife and little children into the street. I do not think you are naturally a bad man, and I hope this time in the county jail will sober you up for life. This ought to be a lesson for you."

WOUNDED; IN JAIL; CONNECTS HELM WITH FATAL GUN WIFE SUING HIM; WANTS TO DIE Important Point Gained by the Prosecution in Hayes Murder Case of Stockton.

A. Andrews, Who Tried Murder and Suicide, Thinks Troubles Too Numerous.

Albert Andrews, who was arrested on a charge of attempting to kill his father-in-law, who resides in Cull canyon, after trying to end his own life, is now in the county jail under the care of a physician. Andrews was taken to the receiving hospital after he had shot at his father-in-law and then fired a bullet into his own breast, and later removed to the county infirmary. He has been brought to the county jail, however, for safe keeping.

Andrews is anxious to die, as he says that is the only way that his troubles will end. He was released from the county jail, after serving a long term for assaulting his wife, shortly before he tried to kill his father-in-law and end his own life. His wife is trying to get a divorce from him.

The accused man is in a serious condition, but it is thought that he will recover.

STOCKTON, June 13.—Some very important testimony from the standpoint of the prosecution in the Hayes murder case was given today in the trial of the two Fresno youths.

Emil Sheubullian, a boy, testified that about the middle of October, 1905, he and Willie Helm broke into a cabin known as the property of Paul Brothers, during the absence of the owners. He declared that he had seen the fatal gun there and that Helm had picked it up and expressed a desire for it. The witness prevailed upon Helm not to take it. It is the theory of the prosecution that Helm went back later and took the gun.

POVERTY PLEA FAILS TO HOLD OFF ALIMONY

Louis E. Fleming, formerly connected with the city electrician's office, told Superior Judge Harris that he is too poor to pay his former wife alimony. He said that he had been ordered to pay $15 a month but that he now owes $150. Fleming said that he only had $15 and was ordered to pay this amount on account and to hurry with the rest.

W. G. FITZMIER CALLED BY DEATH

Popular Piano Man of This City Dies of Heart Trouble.

Mr. W. G. Fitzmier, popularly known among his many friends and acquaintances as "Ditz", died at his home, 60 Lewis street, this city, last Tuesday afternoon from a complicated stomach and heart trouble arising from an attack of ptomaine poisoning which developed while on a recent business trip to Fresno.

Returning to Oakland some weeks ago from the San Joaquin valley town, his many friends urged an immediate rest and cessation from business, but with his characteristic will and energy he buckled down to his duties here as manager of the Curtiz Piano House until he was compelled, through sheer weakness, to give up and take to his bed.

After two weeks of suffering and pain death came to his relief.

The deceased was 32 years of age, unmarried and a native of Virginia City, Nev. He leaves a widowed mother, who resides here, and a sister in Paris, France, together with a host of friends in this city and in Fresno, where he represented the Curtiz piano people for many years. He was a most sunny and kindly disposition, a lovable nature and a strength of character that attracted to him all those whose privilege it was to know him. He had been associated with the firm of Bend, Curtiz & Son of San Francisco for fifteen years or more, occupying very responsible positions and less than a year ago came to this city as manager of their branch house here. In the fraternity of piano men up and down the coast he was well and favorably known.

He will be mourned as a loving and dutiful son, a staunch comrade and friend, an honest, upright man and in death his friends and loved ones paid the full and last homage of respect and devotion.

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

VIVE LE DIRECTOIRE!

The Directorate gown, interdicted in Paris as shocking and causing the arrest of its fair wearers on a charge of indecent exposure, was pronounced "outré" when it appeared a few days ago in Chicago. To the Paris police the offense seems to have been in the fact that beneath this clinging snake-like skin of cloth the supple curves as God made them flowed with undisguised grace. Parisian propriety, be it understood, admits only the outline built by the corsetiers as proper to be displayed, and draws the "dead line" at the rhythmic curves of nature. Is our American chivalry responsible for this militar term of censure, we wonder, or have the long trailing gowns of a few seasons past calloused our finer sensibilities to so slight an expose as the directrice gown offers? It is within the memory of all when women wore long gowns that swept the street, surely above criticism on the point of inadequacy to their reason for being. But when those sweeping draperies were gathered up in the hand or wound around the figure and tucked under the arm in order to make locomotion possible, the height of the elevation was not always dictated by the decorous limit of the directrice slit-up. And there was no less uncertainty as to the color of millad's stockings during the reign of the unimpeachable trailing skirt than there will be with this incoming style. In proof thereof, Miss thread open-work, we are bound to admit, had great a vogue during the trailing-skirt days as it must have with the new skirts, with the exception, possibly, that the open-work may no longer be wrought in the accepted "boot" style.—Argonaut

A ROMANTIC ELOPEMENT.

A. Spreckels' only sister, Laura Spreckels, married the late Tom Watson, a broker who was an intimate associate of her brothers, and some thirty years her senior. Being aware that the family would object to the union, the couple eloped to San Jose and were there married. Despite the difference in their years, the marriage proved a happy one. Mr. Watson, who was an Englishman, took his young bride back to his native land, and there he died a few years ago. The young widow returned to San Francisco for a short visit after the death of her husband. She was the recipient of much social attention here. The bitterness between herself and her family, which the runaway match had engendered, was forgotten in her days of mourning. It has been said that the splendid mansion in Van Ness avenue, which is occupied by her father, the aged sugar king, Claus Spreckels, and his worthy wife, was built for the purpose of giving their only daughter an opportunity to enjoy the social distinction suitable to a person of her large fortune. The mansion was scarcely completed, however, when she took the happy step which so seriously offended her family.

C. Augustus Spreckels married Miss Dore of San Francisco, the daughter of a well-known citizen who conducted a large dry business. The beautiful Miss Lurline Spreckels, who attracted so much attention in European society, is the daughter of Augustus Spreckels. Her family has spent most of the time abroad for several years. There was much newspaper speculation as to the handsome young lady's marriage. At one time it was said that she might accept the attentions of Santos Dumont, the celebrated aeronaut. Monsieur Dumont showed the good taste of admiring the beautiful San Francisco girl immensely, but it was thought that her family did not regard his attentions with special favor.

There is a rumor in newspaper circles that a certain prominent citizen, who often takes flying trips to Paris and did the grand rounds with Santos, used his influence, as a family friend, to put the aeronaut out of the running. Whatever the cause may have been, Monsieur Dumont lost the race. The handsome heiress became the wife of Spencer Eddy, who is distinguished in the American diplomatic service, and is expected to become still more so.—The Wasp.

MAURE ALLAN'S DANCE AT CLOSE RANGE.

The first Californian to see Maud Allan dance in London has just returned home. Charley Forbes knows a great deal more about the dips, spins and cross-cuts of a quartz mine in the Sierras than he does about torpichorean feats, but he has picked up a bit of theatrical knowledge in knocking about East and West, and this is what he has to say of the Californian girl who is now the vogue in the London music halls. "Everybody that sees Miss Allan in the dance comes away with one of two opinions: that it's the limit or that it is 'so artistic.' There is no middle opinion. Many go to see her because they think it is the most improper act ever put upon the stage. Just as many more attend because they regard the performance as the highest expression in motion of the pure and chaste. The performance struck me as indecent, but handled in a way to make it appear perfectly modest. From a certain French point of view such an achievement is high art. She dances barefooted and bare limbed. Her draperies are the thinnest of gauze. In the Salome dance she is nude to the waist, except for some strings of beads and jeweled ornaments. Below the waist—well, she wears a single gauze skirt, and when it isn't floating in the air its transparency doesn't interfere in the slightest degree with the eyesight. Her dancing is the personification of exquisite grace and her naturalness is marvelous. As I have said, it all depends on the viewpoint, and perhaps the character, whether one comes away shocked or entranced."

Through mutual friends from California, Mr. Forbes met Miss Allan and very frankly she gave him her ideas of the performance. "I know nothing about dancing," she confessed, "so I don't dance at all. I simply interpret music to motion. I move my limbs and body according to the suggestions I get from the music. I consider the performance to be perfectly modest, so naturally I don't feel that sense of shame of which some of the critics speak. 'A nude person, you know, is not necessarily immodest any more than a nude picture or statue is.' That is just what I try to present—living art. The English people have been most kind and appreciative, and I have been the guest of many distinguished families from the King and Queen down. I am sure I would not have been invited to houses I have been in did my hosts consider me in the slightest degree vulgar."

According to Mr. Forbes no mention of the Durrant case is ever made abroad in connection with Miss Allan. The story current in London is simply that she was born in Canada and was taken to California when she was about six years old. The English consider that what her brother may or may not have done cuts no figure with Miss Allan as a woman or as an artist. Miss Allan's parents have been living with her ever since they arrived from San Francisco. All three plan to take up their permanent residence in Berlin after Miss Allan's engagements in England are closed.—Town Talk.

EXPECT MRS. NUTTALL SOON.

It is expected that Mrs. Nuttall will visit San Francisco shortly. She has been living in the fastness of the Mexican mountains, and could not be reached in time to be summoned to the deathbed of her brother, Robert Nuttall, whose funeral has cast a gloom over society. Mrs. Robert Nuttall and her sister-in-law in Mexico are devoted to each other, and the presence of the latter will be a great consolation to the widow. The married life of the Robert Nuttalls, so rudely disturbed by death, has been one of unbroken happiness in singular contrast to the hardships made by early death and divorce in the Nuttall family. Grandchildren of the late John Parrott by his first wife, they have always been in the innermost circle of society. The Mrs. Nuttall in Mexico was divorced many years ago, and the court allowed the wife to take her maiden name and also bestowed it on the daughter, Nadine. Mrs. Robert Nuttall is a daughter of Mrs. Henry Rosenstock, and inherited a large fortune from her father, who was a wealthy Jewish business man. The greatest sympathy is felt for Mrs. Nuttall and Mrs. Rosenstock.—News Letter.

THE LAWRENCE R. CROOKS DIVORCED.

My Honolulu correspondent, under date of June 3, writes me that Mrs. Lawrence R. Crooks has secured a divorce from her husband. She was Marion C. Dowsett, one of the rich Dowsett girls, a sister of Mrs. Dr. J. H. Raymond, Mrs. Fred Knight of San Francisco, and of the late Mrs. Dunbar, who became widely known on the coast by her rescue from drowning of young Gray, her engagement of marriage to him and his rather snobbish jilting of her afterwards. Mrs. Crooks, like all her sisters, is a beautiful woman. Just enough Hawaiian blood flows in her veins to give her that sumptuous beauty which captivates most visitors to these islands.—Town Talk.

BRANCHES OF THE NOTED FAMILY.

Rudolph Spreckels, another of the Spreckels brothers, married Miss Nellie Joliffe of San Francisco, one of the family distinguished for their good looks and wit. John D. Spreckels, the oldest of the sugar king's sons, has three children, who are popular members of local society, and have all married well. His only son, Mr. "Jack"

Spreckels, a god-mother, manly and popular citizen, married Miss Edith Huntington. She is one of the prettiest and most accomplished young matrons in society, and is a general favorite. Jack Spreckels' sister Lillie married Harry Holbrook, one of our leading merchants; his other sister, Grace, married Alexander Hamilton, of the old and influential firm of Baker & Hamilton. Both Messrs. Holbrook and Hamilton were very prominent in club life prior to their marriages. Their wives are handsome and accomplished women. Mrs. Holbrook is noted for her stylish costumes.—The Wasp.

RED PEPPER STOPS GRADUATION EXERCISES.

The advantages of higher education and the juvenile sense of American humor were both intelligently exemplified at the recent graduation exercises of the San Rafael High School. The exercises were so over punctuated with coughing and sneezing that the principal wisely abbreviated the program and dismissed the audience into the fresh air. Red pepper and snuff sprinkled around with a prodigal hand set everyone giving a lively imitation of pulmonary troubles. Dr. E. Perceval Lewis of the University of California, whose talents are recognized the scholastic world over, had his address ruined by the indecorous coughing and sneezing. A great many people seem to regard the affair as a joke, but there are the people who confound the old adage "boys will be boys" with the modern interpretation, "boys will be hoodlums." A thorough investigation should be made, and if it is discovered that any of the pupils in the school, so outraged all decent sense of humor, they should be dealt with very severely. If the village roughs committed the nuisance the fact should be made clear, because meanwhile the pupils of the school rest under an odium in the eyes of intelligent people.—Town Talk.

RUMORS AND JUDGE MELVIN.

If that tickle creature humor has been in a truthful mood during the past few days, genial "Hairy" Melvin, Superior Judge of Alameda county and popular clubman, has decided to retire from the bench in order to again take up the practice of law in which he was so successful prior to his being elected judge. Rumor has it (and rumor is said to have been hobnobbing with some of the judge's most intimate friends) that "Hairy" finds the work on the bench too slow, almost entirely lacking in the fire which is so abundantly to be found in the active practice at the bar. Then too, rumor has it that the judge feels that in the practice of his profession the remuneration would be far greater than the salary that is paid to the superior judges. It is said that he has had some very fine offers from a number of successful firms of Alameda county among them being that in which George W. Reed, prominent in State politics, is the head, to form a partnership. Judge Melvin is recognized by both the bench and bar of the State to be one of the most capable and learned lawyers on the Pacific Coast. As a judge, he is fair and even-tempered, rendering his decisions so correctly that it is seldom that his rulings are questioned even by the ablest practitioners that grace the State bar. Should he retire from the bench, his loss to the judiciary will be most keenly felt. On the other hand, however, the bar will feel that his return to the fold will add much to its learning and reputation.—News Letter.

ONE NEVER CAN TELL.

The marriage of Adolph Spreckels is another proof that it is never safe to bet that the most "confirmed bachelor" will end his days in single curvedness. In recent years we have had several noted examples of bachelor clubmen taking to themselves brides when the world had given them up as possible bachelors. Mr. Spreckels' marriage was, however, a surprise to the public, and to several of his many friends as well. He evidently expected that it would, and hence perhaps the celebration of the nuptials in Philadelphia. The happy couple are now said to be enjoying their honeymoon in Europe. "California bachelors" and addicted to secrecy when they wed. By the time he returns the seven-day wonder will be one no longer. After all, it is entirely a man's own business when he marries, and whom he marries.

Mr. Spreckels has been a representative turtman, as well as an active business man, ever since he became of age. He has not made the slightest pretense of cultivating society or kowtowing to conventionality. Miss Anna de Brettville, the dashing bride whom Mr. Spreckels has taken to himself, figured in 1901 in a breach of promise suit against Charles Anderson, of the famous "Klondike millionaire." The defendant attempted to prove that the lady had done most of the wooing, but the jury found a verdict against him and awarded the fair plaintiff the sum of $1250, which, considering the state of Anderson's finances and the alleged rigor of his courtship was certainly not excessive. It is said that Mr. Spreckels' friendly interest in his future bride began in 1902.

Adolph Spreckels, or, to call him by his more commonly used name of "Dolph" Spreckels, has been the most popular of his family. His brothers are John D., Rudolph and C. A. Spreckels. In his younger days he was also the best-looking of the four.—The Wasp.

IS ETHEL BARRYMORE ENGAGED?

The other afternoon at the Burlingame Club, a visitor just returning from the East, buttered the tea biscuits with a layer of gossip about Ethel Barrymore. Burlingame just dotes on the magnetic Ethel, and so of course everyone cried for more than one helping. Being a mere man he could not give any of the fascinating details a woman takes in at a glance, but he insisted that he had seen enough to convince him that the lovely Barrymore is very much interested in Will T. Hodge of Chicago, and his friends confidently predict that her heart, with which she has played "Injun giver" so many times, is now securely lashed to the mast of one Will T. Hodge.

"Oh, dear," drawled a Burlingame dame, "I had really reached the state where I hoped she would marry my son. He is always epir of some actress, and rather Miss Barrymore than anyone else."

I take it that Miss Barrymore would not look any more kindly on the foregoing remark than she did on the young man's suit, which he pressed with great ardor during her last engagement in the city. The young man may find some consolation in the fact that the announcement of Ethel Barrymore's engagement has become a habit.—Town Talk.

THE GOODALL DIVORCE CASE.

The formal legal proceedings in the Goodall divorce case, only confirmed the rumor that has been floating around for months that the relations of the good-looking captain and his stylish wife were far from harmonious. The couple have not been married many years. Captain Harry Goodall is a son of a prominent pioneer, who was one of the founders of the shipping firm of Goodall, Nelson & Perkins. He left a very large estate to his three children, two sons and a daughter.

Captain Harry has made considerable money in business ventures and when his wife estimates that his income is in the neighborhood of $16,000 a year she probably does not overshoot the mark. She wants a modest $100 a month for alimony. The captain is the owner of a very handsome gasoline yacht, which once belonged to the late Charles Fair, the ill-fated brother of Mrs. Herman Orlin, who was killed instantly, as was his wife while motor-boat at great speed along a country road in France.

Mrs. Goodall alleges that her husband has developed a disinclination for her society and a strong partiality for that of Bohemian acquaintances, whom he wines and dines on shore and entertains sumptuously upon his yacht, it is said.

Mrs. Goodall's maiden name was Miss Alice Maud Hollenbeck. Her mother and sister at present residing in Los Angeles. Before her marriage she lived with her mother in this city. It is said that Captain Goodall's relatives were displeased with him for his selection of a wife, but Mrs. Goodall's friends assert that she proved to be a model spouse, and has done everything in her power to retain her husband's affections. It is evident that the case is one of those which is calculated to make spicy newspaper reading should it ever come to a public trial, like some of those that have recently occupied the attention of the local courts and have furnished the reporters material for months.—The Wasp.

TIRED OF NG PONG CHEW.

I am utterly tired of the fulminations of the Chinese wit, Mr. Ng Pong Chew. He is a most cheerful and entertaining little man, and he is not far off the right track in his caustic remarks regarding the Californian estimate of the Chinese and the Chinese character. There is one thing he repeats again and again which makes me utterly tired. He claims that Cupid is practically unknown in China, or that the little god makes his appearance only after marriage, and never before. Now, this is not at all true, and it is high time that the impression given by the eminent persiflage was corrected. The festive little god is just as numerous as pestiferous in Japan and China as anywhere else, and the impressionable should not take any stock in the lecturer's disquisitions on the subject of love. The Chinese maiden can give cards and spades to the Caucasian, and the Japanese goes her one better. Their marriage systems are vastly different, but there are just as many mismatched couples, and the woman has no recourse to the law courts, while the man is wise enough to avoid the notoriety newspapers would give. Humanity, in its love affairs, is much the same, whether it be in the New York or San Francisco drawing-room or under the wiktoria at Nikko or the gardens of Peking. Ng Pong Chew, as far as Cupid is concerned, is a nature fakir, and I take great pleasure in exposing him. Cupid is Cupid, black, brown, yellow or white.—News Letter.

FATAL TO HAWAIIAN ROYALTY.

The death of Prince David Kawananakoa reminds us that King Kalakaua, who was really the last monarch of Hawaii, died in San Francisco at the old Palace Hotel. The Queen who succeeded Kalakaua was only a monarch in name. Old King Kalakaua was a great favorite at the Bohemian Club. Both the merry monarch and Prince David observed the old classic motto "Dum vivimus vivamus" (while we live let us live). The late Prince David left a widow, who was Miss Campbell, daughter of James Campbell, a rich old sugar planter in Hawaii. The prince was the son of King Kalakaua's cousin, Chief D. Kahanaloupi. His mother, the Princess Likolike, was a sister of King Kalakaua's queen, David and his brother, "Cupid," were made princes by royal edict.—The W.P.

ENTER THE DIRECTOIRE—EXIT THE GIBSON GIRL.

What has become of the Gibson Girl? One never hears of her these days of long, lean lines, and attenuated curves. Probably if Mr. Gibson was still adding to his gallery of girls he would sufficiently reduce his models in weight to win popular favor. But the existing Gibson girl, as we find her in the periodicals of yesterday, is hopelessly passé. One never hears a beauty referred to now as "a regular Gibson girl." The Gibson girl's hips are too curvilinear for fashionable beauty. She was a thing of slender beauty in her day, but that was not the day of the Directorate! For more men to contemplate the liberties the corset-makers take with the feminine figure would lead to the charge that most women are nature fakirs. Let fashion decree sheath-like dresses and straightway their figures assume scabbard proportions.

It is not likely that anything but a modified Directorate will be seen in San Francisco, for we are not foolish enough to rush in where Paris fears to tread. When the daring Parisians hesitate at the models recently paraded at the Longchamp races it is not likely that any one here will try to equal the record of Mme. Viscount, who, like Mme. Tallier, was one of the queens of beauty of the Directorate period. One day as she walked in one of the summer gardens, the company present began betting what the weight of her clothes, including her footwear and jewels would be. After much discussion the total was estimated at three pounds. Mme. Viscount smiled disdainfully and went into a summer house, where some of the ladies present were summoned to act as judges. Scales were sent for, and it was found that dress, shoes, jewels, two large canoes, and all, barely turned the scale at two pounds.—Town Talk.

WHY SHE IS GLAD.

"It has been most painful," said Mrs. Alfred Wynne Vanderbilt to an interviewer the day her divorce suit was favorably decided, "to face all the notoriety that such a step involved; but I am glad it has ended."

Mrs. Vanderbilt has good reason to be glad. She is to get $5,000,000 cash, the custody of her little son, and her divorced husband is barred from remarriage for five years.—The Wasp.

THE SOCIAL WRAITH OF MARY CROCKER.

A friend, who has spent the winter in Washington and who has had more than a peep behind the scenes of the passing show, brings home some interesting news of the Francis Burton Harrison. San Francisco is always interested in the Harrison, though it bears the brilliant young politician no special love for so soon salving the memory of the tragic death of his first wife, Mary Crocker, with the charms of a dashing divorcee. My informant tells me that the Harrisons have had a very nice time in Washington, in spite of the fact that they have had Mrs. Burton Harrison managing their social reclamation. Mrs. Burton Harrison has always been popular in Washington society—her tongue is mightier than her pen—and she had an established place as a dinner guest when somebody were to be entertained. So, of course, the Francis Harrisons might have been expected to trip into society on the train of mamma's dinner gown. But it seems that Mrs. Francis lacks social sense, that she is socially "impossible." Society has assimilated women with a rosy past beside which the most recent Mrs. Harrison's past is a lovely past shade. But somehow she does not "get on," and there is a trappé air about the quaint old Cushing home on which the Harrisons still have a lease of several years. They are evidently determined to see it out to the end and Mrs. Burton Harrison comes of good old southern fighting stock. A popular rumor in Washington is that the Whitelaw Reid have pulled many invisible wires and blocked their progress. Mary Crocker Harrison was like a daughter in the Reid family and Francis Burton Harrison's second marriage was a great shock to them.—Town Talk.

THE TRUMBLE DIVORCE.

That Colonel Isaac Trumbo and his wife should get into the divorce courts has not occasioned any surprise. Mrs. Trumbo is a good deal younger than the Colonel. Her maiden name was Miss Mary Shaughnessy. She has commenced her suit in Salt Lake City, where she is living with her relatives. The colonel's first wife was also a Salt Lake woman. Many people have an impression that Colonel Trumbo is a Mormon, though the fact of his being a co-religionist of Brigham Young has never been established. No gentleman, however, could be more loyal to the ladies. In that respect he is a second Colonel Cabel Maddox.

When Colonel Trumbo first came to San Francisco, about twenty years ago, he handled a great deal of Mormon capital, and at once became a prominent factor in the money market here. He lived in great style, both when here and when in Salt Lake. In the latter city he rented the residence of Brigham Young's favorite wife. For some years the colonel has not, it is thought, handled so much Mormon capital.—The Wasp.

WILL FOLLOW HIS FIANCEE TO EUROPE.

I hear that Mr. George Cameron does not take kindly to the idea of his fiancée's absence in Europe, and so he has decided to join the de Young party there during the summer. Mr. Cameron has a brother about his own age and "the Cameron boys," as they were familiarly called, lived for years on California street, above Franklin in the old Cameron home, which was subsequently purchased by Mr. Fredrick Zelle. George Toland Cameron is a nephew of the late Dr. Toland, after whom he was named. Toland Medical College is now affiliated with the University of California.—Town Talk.

NOT LONG TO WAIT.

In a little over a year we are to see the old Palace Hotel again in its old place. To native San Franciscan the city will never seem the same until the Palace Hotel erects itself in Market street. There is to be a palm garden in the new hotel—a palm garden modeled as closely as possible after the old one. What will it be like—the new palm garden? Will the same pretty girls, the same handsome matrons, meet there to lunch and chat? Will it be the famous place of rendezvous for lovers that the old one was? If the wishes of the Sharon estate's heirs are carried out to the letter the new palm garden is to be an exact counterpart of the old.—The Wasp.

ROMANCE OF AN ACCOMPLISHED "COOK."

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bryant have gone to Los Angeles to reside after spending a part of their honeymoon in San Francisco. Mrs. Bryant was Miss Jeanette Gillis, a daughter of the late James Gillis, the San Joaquin capitalist and steamboat man. She is very accomplished and purely the love of being busy and doing something useful had a large class in music at Antioch. But it was her housewifely accomplishments and a dash of masculine charm that captivated her husband. Mr. Bryant happened to be a guest at the Gillis country home, Elmwood, at a time when the cook was on "vacation." Miss Jeanette had done cooking regiments and presided in the kitchen, flatly refusing to meet her mother's new guest at dinner. In a spirit of fun Mrs. Gillis, after dinner, took her guest to the kitchen, remarking, "Mr. Bryant, this is my cook. She doesn't care to meet you, but I like to have you meet her." Five weeks later Mr. Bryant asked for the hand of "the cook." The wedding was one of the prettiest in the history of San Joaquin county, many of the guests coming from San Francisco, Oakland and Alameda.—Town Talk.

THE H. E. HUNTINGTON PURCHASE.

The purchase of the San Marino ranch in the San Gabriel valley by H. E. Huntington is taken by some as an indication that the new owner intends to build there a beautiful country home. Huntington appears to have become a permanent resident of Southern California, and to have abandoned all intention of returning to this part of the State, where he scored his early successes in business, when his uncle, the late Collis P. Huntington, was alive. The San Marino ranch was once owned by the late J. de Barth Shorb, the father of Mrs. Shorb White Buck, the former society leader in San Francisco. The San Gabriel valley is one of the prettiest in California, famous as is our State for its delightful valleys. The Shorbs were great people socially and politically in early days. De Barth Shorb was a handsome Southern gentleman, who dispensed hospitality in the most open-handed manner. It might have been better for his family, perhaps, had he been less generous.

Mrs. Howard Huntington has come up to Berkeley to visit her family and be present at the marriage of her sister, Miss Ruth Green, with George Campbell Jones, which will take place next Tuesday.—The Wasp.

"THEY WERE SO COMFY."

"How to be happy, though married"—live in a flat. The O'Brien case has proved it. Mrs. O'Brien has said it, and she's had experience.

"They were so comfy there!" Thrust no more satirical grins at the floor plan of the San Francisco flat dwelling, with its ceiling papered with postage stamps and its cunning adjustable furniture hink of the O'Briens. In those happy days when her lord and master wished to expostulate with the lady for catching the eyes of other men, he was somewhat hampered in the expression of his rage. One wrathful arm would gesture itself out of the window, when he struck a majestic attitude, down would come the sideboard; when he strode toward her in manly indignation, lo! there would come a crash of timber and he landed in the next room. A stream of such little annoyances is sure to nip a healthy temper in the bud.

"We had little differences, like all strong-minded people, but we never had to call in the police."

What more do you want? Perhaps, if society would confine itself to these comfy little quarters prominent wife-abusers would save money on alimony.—The Wasp.

HE GAVE GOOD ADVICE.

Mark Booth Russell, the beautiful wife of Robert Mantell, once took exception to the critique of one of the most famous dramatic carapists in America; and, in a fit of daring, sat down and wrote him this letter:

"Dear Sir. You say in your criticism that, as a Shakespearean actress, I am a failure. Would you be equally candid, constructively, and tell me how to make a success?"

She says that she thought that a remarkably brilliant epistle until she received his reply, by return mail, and then she wilted. The master critic wrote:

"Miss Marie Russell—Dear Madam: Certainly I will. Be natural."—The Wasp.

LONDON CLUB FOR AMERICAN WOMEN.

American women, who go to London now have a comfortable rendezvous at the Anglo-American Ladies' Club, which was opened the other day in the heart of fashionable Mayfair. Countess Dowager of Stafford, and the Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava are among the American vice-presidents of the club. A novelty is provided by the dining-room, which is at the top of the building on the sixth floor. There are ninety bedrooms and twenty-three private sitting rooms. The club has also rented a palatial country house at Ashdown ark, Surrey.—The Wasp.

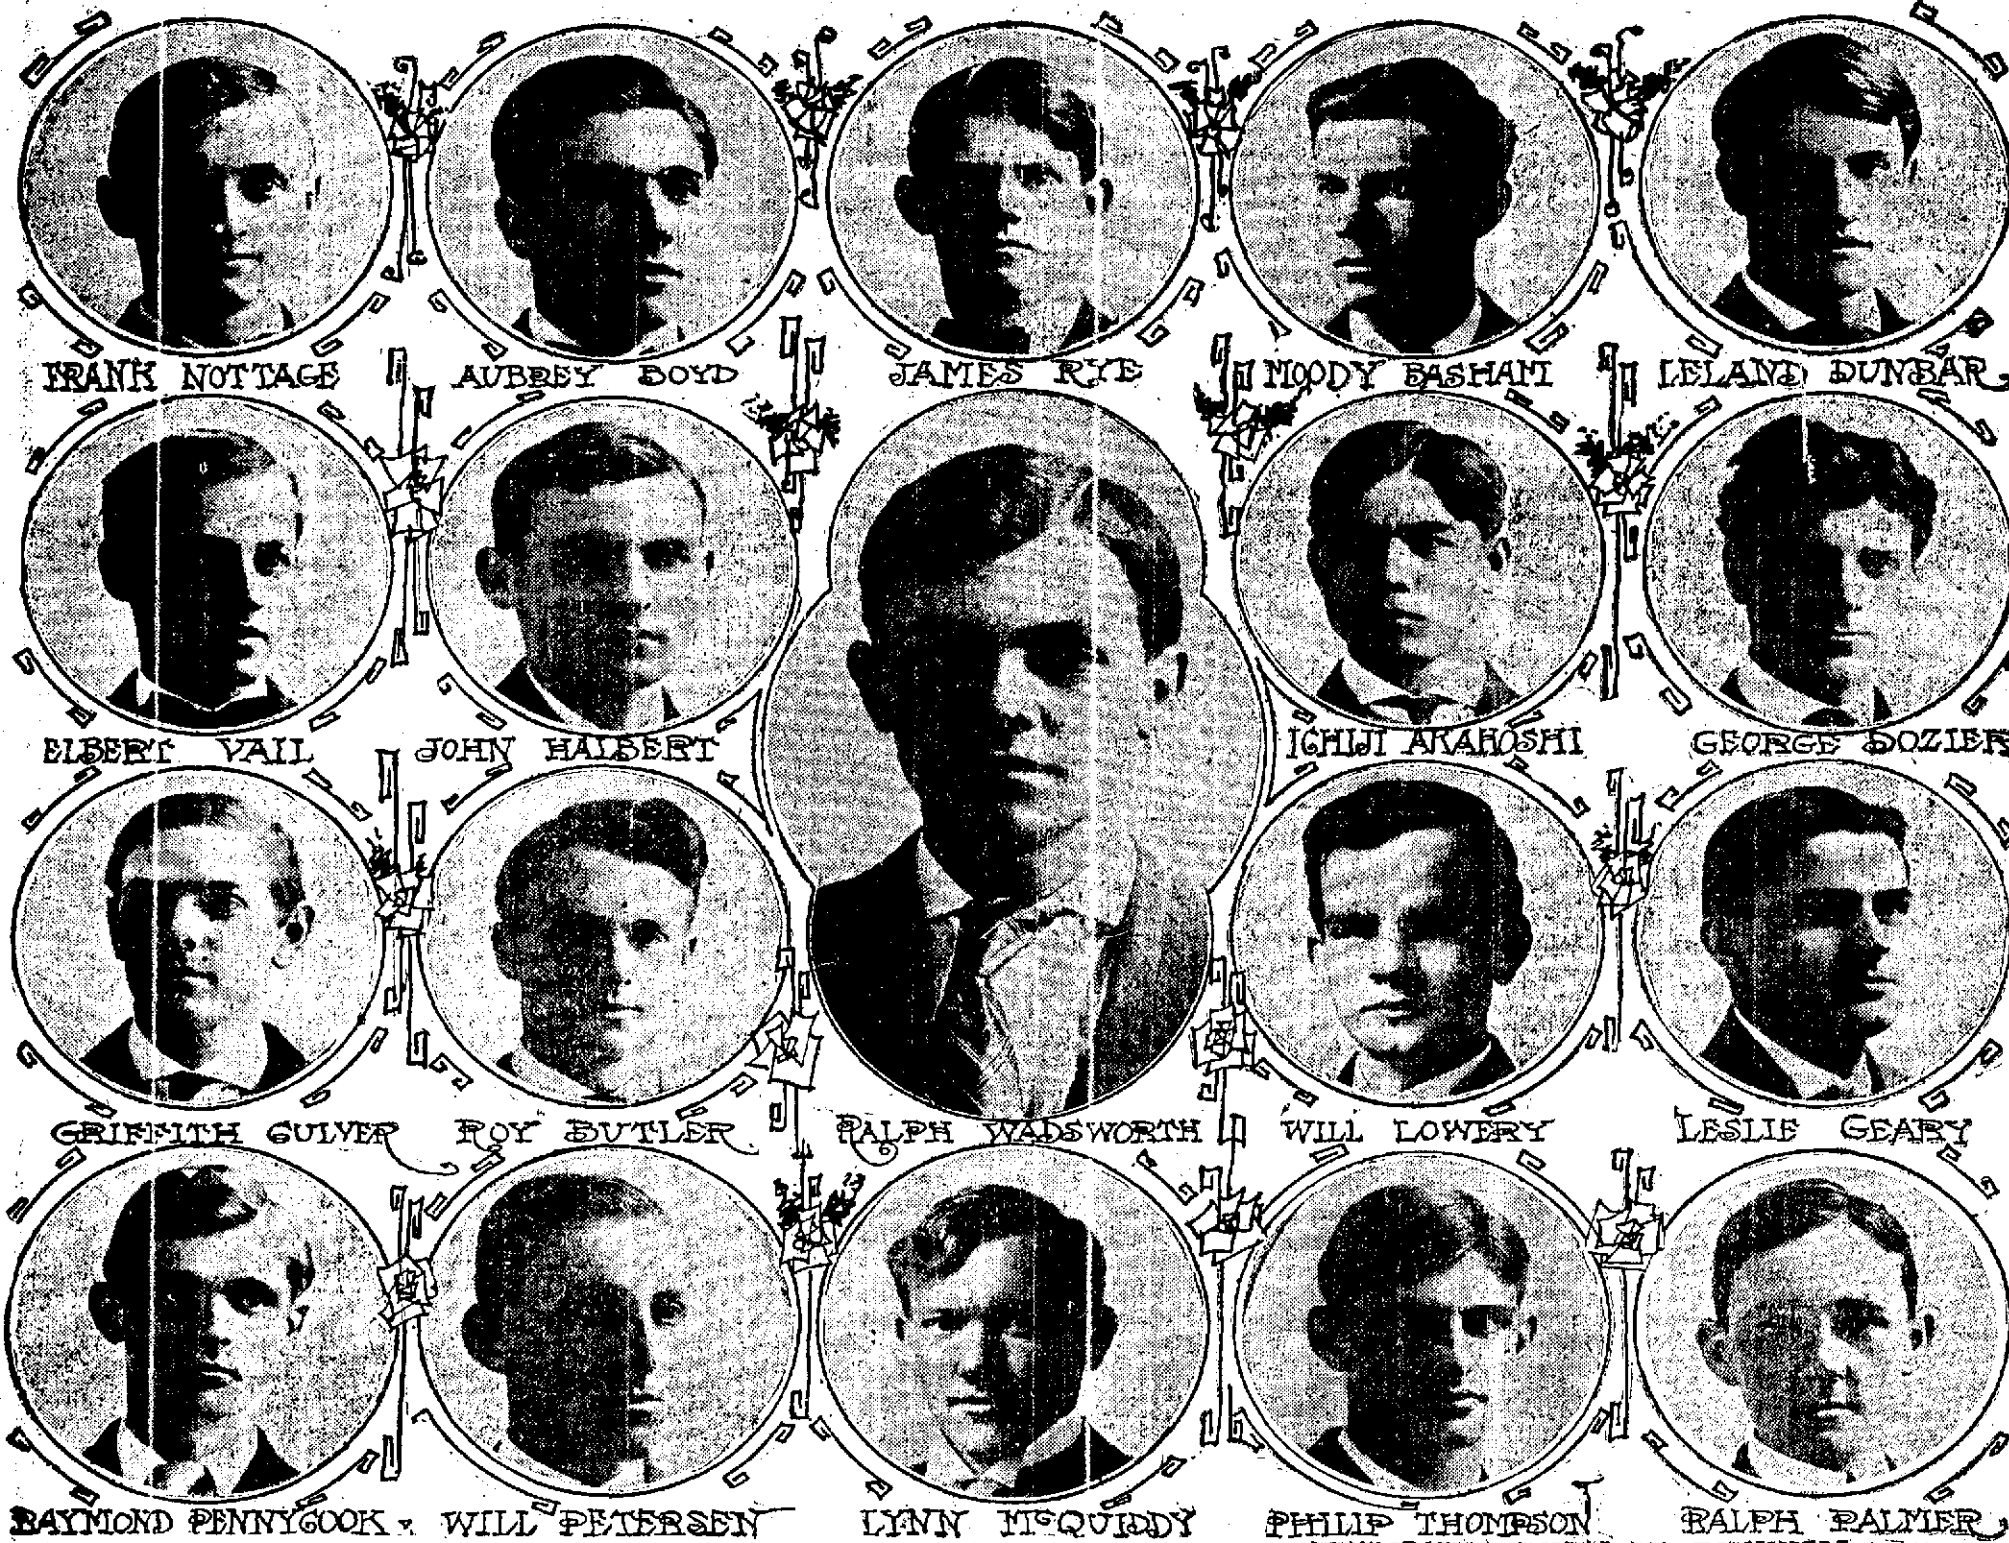

A DOUBLE-BARRELED JOKE.

It was a great surprise, they say, to young Jack Spreckels when a reporter told him that his uncle Adolph had taken to himself a wife.

"That's a good joke on Uncle Adolph," he said. "Why, he's a confirmed bachelor, and never will get married."

But the joke is evidently not altogether on Uncle Adolph.—The Wasp.

MAY CLOSE DOWN EVERY MINE IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, June 13.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Galesburg, Ill., says:
George W. Thompson of this city, judge of the Circuit and Appellate courts, said yesterday that the new mining law requiring every miner employed in a mine to have a certificate of competency, issued by an examining board, will close every mine in Illinois on July 1. At that date the law goes into operation. It provides that the circuit judges shall appoint an examining board of three competent miners from each county, who shall issue certificates to miners, but these appointments cannot be made until the law goes into effect.

NO MORE JAPANESE FOR CANADA THIS YEAR

PORTLAND, June 13.—A special dispatch from Vancouver, B. C., to the Oregonian, says:
The Canadian government has notified the government of Japan that the limit of immigrants allowed for one year had been reached and that no more Japanese laborers should be sent to Canada before January 1 of next year.

LARGE CLASS TO BE GRADUATED

Exercises to Be Held in Chabot Hall on Evening of June 18.

The class to be graduated from the High School this term is an unusually large one. The commencement exercises will be held on the evening of June 18th in the Chabot Assembly Hall.
Ralph Wadsworth is the valedictorian of the boys' class, having graduated with the highest percentage. He will speak at the graduating exercises for the young men as will Miss Lucia B. Mills for the young women.
The program is as follows: Invocation, Rev. George W. White; introductory remarks, J. H. Pond; song, "Now in the Month of Maying," Templeton, Stans; Oakland High School Girls' Glee Club; essay, "Influence of Music in the High School," Lucile B. Mills; talk, "A Student Self-government in the High School," Ralph G. Wadsworth; songs, "There Is No Spring But You," Irene O'Connor; "A Memory," Irene O'Connor; address to graduates, Rev. A. W. Palmer; song, "Aloha," Oakland High School Girls' Glee Club; presentation of diploma, G. H. Redington, president of the Board of Education; accompanist, Miss Mildred Porter.
List of Graduates.
The graduates are: I. Akahoshi, William Lowery, Irene Alexander, Hazel McNamara, Gladys Baker, Lynn MacQuiddy, Sophie Black, Mabel McGahan, Ruth Ball, Lucia Mills, Mabel Nichols, Emily Bell, Frank Nottage, Aubrey Boyd, Irene O'Connor, Ella Burbeck, Annis Ostrander, Roy Butler, Ralph Palmer, James Church, Ray Pennycook, Griffiths Culver, William Peterson, Laura Curley, Mildred Porter, Eloise Cushing, Annie Reybourne, Gusie de La Guna, Phyllis Ricketts, Mary Divine, Eunice Ricketts, George Dozier, Guglielma Roth, Leland Dunham, Isabel Rush, Flo Feneran, James Rye, Irene Frisbie, Hazel Shay, Leslie Geary, Kate Stroud, Emily Gray, Phillips Thompson, John Halbert, Katherine Trotter, Ruth Nelson, Elbert Vail, Ethel Irving, Helen Van Slyke, Coralee Jacobs, Ralph Wadsworth, Laura Lamoureux, Lydia Wetheren, Hazel Land, Grace Wood, Edna Lee, Alice Earle, Moody, Basham.

UNION IRON WORKS WILL BUILD DRYDOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Within ten days or two weeks the Union Iron Works will let a contract for the construction of a large drydock to cost between $500,000 and $600,000. The work is to begin immediately after the acceptance of the contract.

ALUMNAE MEETING.

The Alumnae of Snell Seminary held an important meeting last Saturday at the home of Miss Margaret Smith, president of the association, on Virginia street, Berkeley. After the discussion of business and future plans for the society it was decided that a greater social activity was demanded by the organization and a series of informal meetings will be

NAVAL OFFICER, DEGRADED BEFORE THOUSANDS, WEEPS

French Spy Stripped of Sword Amid Crowd's Jeers and Hoots

TOULON, June 13.—A pitiable spectacle, the degradation of Ensign Charles Ullmo, formerly a naval officer, occurred at Rocher Square today in the presence of an enormous crowd. Ensign Ullmo was arrested at Toulon charged with being a spy, an examination of his efforts showed him to be in possession of many valuable documents. Last February he was found guilty by a courtmartial of attempting to sell naval secrets to a foreign power and sentenced to life imprisonment in a fortress and to be degraded in rank.
Train excursions were run into Toulon and thousands of people from the surrounding country came in to witness the ceremony.
Ullmo, wearing his uniform and sword, was led into the rectangle where the commandant read the order that Ullmo had betrayed his country and was not worthy to wear his uniform. Two subalterns then took off his sword and stripped him of the chevrons and buttons. One of the subalterns broke the sword across his knee and then threw the broken sword at Ullmo's feet. In his plight Ullmo was compelled to march at the head of a squad of soldiers around the rectangle amid the hoots and jeers of the crowd. He walked with his bare head sunk upon his breast and his eyes staring straight in front of him. Tears were streaming down his face.

"BABY MINE"

Every mother dreads the pain attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy, but the suffering incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of dread. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of much of the pain of maternity. This hour, dreaded as women's severest trial, is not only made less painful, but danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, and the system is prepared for the coming event by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. Book company information of its benefits to all women. Write to: BRADFELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

BRASS TACK TALK NO. 6

Saturday evening, June 18, '08.

—Tomorrow is sightseeing day at Broadmoor and a crowd will be out to see the tract.

—We will be glad to see these people because we have something to show them besides promises on paper.

—Broadmoor is different from most tracts because all of the work is practically done—We don't have to say, "We will do this," and "It is our intention to do that," and "The railroad will probably have a depot here!"—We know—We have done things—There are no "ifs" nor "ands," there is no guess-work.

—And that's why we're glad you are coming to see Broadmoor, for there is something to see.

—The best evidence of intentions and results is to see what has been done in the past—Now, the only thing left to complete Broadmoor is to enforce the building restrictions—We have done everything else, but can't enforce building restrictions until building begins.

—But we can show you what we have done in the past in regard to building restrictions.

—We have opened over 30 tracts and everyone stands as a monument to our enforcement of building restrictions—The Santa Fe tracts were opened by us—Do you see anything but pretty cottages on these tracts?—Yet the building restrictions here were not half as strict as at Broadmoor—Elmwood Park was opened by us and it's one of the prettiest sections in this county.

—Lot buyers at Broadmoor sign an ironclad agreement not to build anything costing less than a certain sum (ranging from $1500 to $3500) and they have to keep their agreement.

—So you are positively assured of fine boulevards, sidewalks, border plants, palms, gas, electricity, telephones, water and sewer (you see all these laid now) and you are absolutely guaranteed against stores, saloons and shanties.

—Take the San Leandro or Hayward cars at 12th and Broadway, Oakland—Cars stop at the entrance gate of Broadmoor without transfer. —We expect to see you tomorrow.

FLEE FLOOD IN TOPEKA STREETS

144 Blocks Under Water and People Are Forced to Abandon Household Effects to Save Their Lives.

SALINA, Kas., June 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kerth, living near Pairo, were drowned last night while returning from a wedding. While driving through a ravine their vehicle was caught by the strong current and the occupants thrown into the stream. The bodies were found several hours later.

Topeka Under Water.
TOPEKA, Kas., June 13.—Flood conditions in Topeka are serious. North Topeka is under water and citizens are being rushed out of their homes by police patrol wagons and every valuable piece of property is being hurriedly removed. The flow of the Shawnee river is so rapid that it is feared that the water will continue to rise. In some places the water is six feet deep. Lower Kansas avenue is covered and street car service is abandoned below Seventeenth street. The fair grounds where a street fair is in progress is suffering and the water is around the Kansas pavilion. The place came so suddenly people were unable to remove their household effects.

Washing Away Property.
The Kaw river and Soldier Creek are overflowing North Topeka and washing away property. Houses are being flooded. The Kaw river shows a registration of over twenty feet at 9 o'clock and still rising.

A heavy rain is falling with every appearance of a continuance through the day. Walnut Grove and that part of East Topeka lying south of Twelfth street and comprising about 144 blocks is one great lake. In some places the water is twenty feet deep. Citizens who were caught without warning and had no time to take them out abandoned their household effects being carried away with the flood.

Fear Greater Flood.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Kansas City this morning is confronted with the possibility of a greater flood situation than it has ever known. An extremely heavy rain fell last night in eastern Kansas and western Missouri and the Kaw river has risen to its highest point. At Kansas City the waters of the river are rising and the rain continues. Three inches fell at Lawrence.

River Rapidly Rising.
EMERSON, Mo., June 13.—The Neosho river has risen to its highest point in its history. The water is rising so rapidly that it is feared that it will continue to rise. The water is now at its highest point in its history.

Flood at St. Louis.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 13.—The flood of the Mississippi river measured 312 feet a rise of half a foot since yesterday morning. The high water has not entered St. Louis although seeping water has filled several small low areas in the city.

SAYS THAT OAKLAND IS RIGHT ON TOP

Attorney George W. Baker Returns to This City for Permanent Location.

His many friends will be pleased to learn that Attorney George W. Baker, who has been for years a resident of this city, after looking over the southland for more congenial climates, has returned to Oakland and will hereafter be found at his office at No. 906 Broadway.

Mr. Baker and his family are old residents here, and their friends are glad to welcome them back to the scenes of Mr. Baker's early activities in California.

Mr. Baker has leased offices in the Blake and Moffitt building in this city, and says that after a careful inspection of other cities in California, Oakland is where it deserves to be at the top.

His investigation of southern cities was inspired by an effort to promote the health of his family but he is firm in the belief that this city offers greater inducements upon these lines than any other city west of the Rockies.

Being no stranger in California, his judgment upon these lines should not be overlooked by others in selecting a desirable location to pitch their tents for health, luxury, and every other element which renders a home the citadel of human happiness.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.
No popularity is strong enough to stand firm convictions.

The order of mortal's emancipation is from the furnace to the lawn mower. You can generally tell when a man is not successful by the way he lies to make people think he is.

It would scare a man to death if he knew how much money his wife thinks she makes other people think they spend.

Spring is the time of year when a woman's chief business is to remember that she has a husband and last time when he took off his winter flannels to work.

No Reason for Suicide.
At Dunham Larrigan & Company where the younger brother is employed as a pricing clerk it was said that he had had no trouble with the firm and no one seemed to know of any reason why he should want to commit suicide.

In support of the latter theory, however, is the fact that contrary to his usual custom Daniel left the other members of the household as early as 5 o'clock. He claimed of being tired and little was thought of the affair until Mrs. Lee devoted the odor of gas this morning at 8 o'clock and her husband broke in the door and found the boy unconscious.

And what is the conclusion of the whole matter?

Messrs. Spreckels, Phelan and Hery directed all their efforts to convicting corporation officials of bribery. They entered into an alliance with the known grafters in an effort to bring about these convictions. The grafters in their eagerness to be "good dogs" added to their original testimony and so defeated the plan: There seems to be at this moment no hope of ever sending any of the San Francisco hoodlums to prison for their crimes.

MEDICAL

MISS AUDREY BEER

One of the very pretty customs of the East is being followed this year by some well-known Oakland girls—the fashion of wearing a ring on the little finger, of course the ring representing something more than just a fad of the hour.

In the East the wearing of many rings has gone out of fashion. The wearing of one on the little finger is the reigning style. Every young girl in the Eastern smart sets thinks she is out of the fashion unless she has one. If she is a school girl it is usually a heavy gold ring, spreading out on top into a plain seal, with the school motto, or her fraternity letters carved into it, or perhaps it is her own monogram or a family crest that is carved on the gold. These are not set with precious stones, which for the young girl have gone out of style. Such a ring is a very good looking touch to a young girl's hand. One well-known girl is wearing her grandfather's wedding ring—a ring which was made from gold discovered by her grandfather in one of the well-known Nevada mines.

Kings like that have a dainty sentiment attached to them, and they represent something of value, weaving dainty memories of the past into the more strenuous life of our modern days.

ANENT THE DIRECTOIRE GOWNS.
One of the leading themes of conversation in the East is, of course, the Directoire costumes that now prevail in France, and that are challenging the attention of all Europe, and of course, also of America.

The great fad of the day is to be thin, of course, and was to the woman with a few superfluous pounds. In New York women are on the strictest mind how much one's health may suffer, for the French health of this season is like a board—woman of this board at that—and a very thin board at that—and she wears a sheath-like gown that emphasizes the board appearance. She cannot walk and she cannot exercise, just as it is impossible for the little Chinese women in our midst, with their small feet, to either walk or exercise.

In a modified form the Directoire gown is appearing in New York, but one thing is certain, the majority of American women cannot wear the Directoire costumes that prevail in France. The life here will not allow it. Every one is attending to business all day, whether that business be wage-earning, domestic, social, club or charity. Women in America use the street cars, they walk nearly everywhere. So the only hours in which they could wear Directoire costumes would be for indoor affairs. One reads of the latest New York walrus line is concealed, but the shoulders are still broad and square, and there is a certain sanity about the gowns that do not give one a queer feeling of distaste.

“We, too, are wearing vivid colors, and the fabrics are so beautiful that they do not make the dye gaudy. The new reds and purples are most artistic. That wonderful purple that has just come out is the best of all. It is black in some lights and seems to have taken a California plum as its model.”

MISS RUSSELL'S TEA.
One of the large teas of the week is scheduled for June 20th, when Miss Gertrude Russell will entertain at a large tea in honor of Miss Engracia Critcher, whose engagement to Lieutenant Freyer was recently announced. Miss Russell is to be one of the bridesmaids at what bids fair to be one of the very notable weddings of the summer. Miss Critcher comes of a long line of Spanish ancestry, and is a most attractive and fascinating girl. Miss Russell will have as her guests at the tea the members of the wedding party and many young matrons and young girls from this side of the bay.

PRIZE WENT TO MISS DARWIN.
Among the delightfully informal events of last week was the bridge party given by Miss Norma Castle at her home at Piedmont in honor of her friend, Miss Louise Hall. Most of the guests were very good players, and achieved fine scores, and the dainty prize of the afternoon went to Miss Helen Dornin. Miss Castle's guests were Miss Louise Hall, Mrs. Arthur Kelley, Miss Evelyn Hussey, Miss Gertrude Russell, Miss Sevilla Hayden, Miss Helen Dornin, Miss Edna Orr, Miss Anita Thomson and Mrs. Hiram Hall.

CRISTS ARE COMING BACK.
Lieutenant and Mrs. A. F. Crist, formerly Katherine Kutz, are expected to return from the north the 13th of June. They have been greatly entertained in the north, and Bremerton is very gay since so many of the warships are there.

Mrs. Crist chaperoned a party of young people at a dance on the Wisconsin, and she herself was a much admired little bride at a grand ball given in Seattle in honor of the officers of the fleet.

ARE VISITING.
Among Mrs. Hearst's guests at the Hacienda this week are Admiral Thomas and his daughters, Mrs. Pleasant and Miss Ruth Thomas. Pleasant and Miss Ruth Thomas. Pleasant and Miss Ruth Thomas.

SUMMER EXODUS HAS BEGUN.
Already the summer exodus has fairly begun, and many people are already out of town. Mrs. John Russell and Mrs. Edward A. Kluegel are to spend the month of June in Yosemite Valley, and are comfortably established at the delightful new camp in the valley, Camp Ahwahnee.

MAC DERMOTS ARE GOING EAST.
Mr. and Mrs. Louis MacDermot are planning to go East in the near future, when Mrs. MacDermot will visit her relatives in Boston, her former home.

RETURNED FROM SOUTHERN VISIT.
Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Everson recently returned home after an enjoyable visit to Southern California, where they were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Arthur Goodhue. The Goodhues have a very delightful home at Long Beach, where their relatives spend very happy summers.

PROMOTION FOR YOUNG METCALF.
Ensign Martin K. Metcalf has been detached from the California and ordered to command the Farragut. Promotions always seem to be in order for Ensign Martin Metcalf, who is one of the most popular and one of the most efficient of the younger naval officers.

WEDDINGS OF THE WEEK.
Many of the weddings this year have been unusually quiet affairs, but interesting nevertheless, as weddings are. One of the notable weddings of the week was that of Mr. Henry Chase and Miss Ruth Knowles, which took place at the bride's home at Linda Vista.

GRAY'S NEW HOME.
Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Gray, formerly Miss Sherman of Washington, D.C., arrived here this week and are soon to occupy the new home which has been prepared for them on Marin Avenue.

COMING HOME FOR VACATION.
Many of the young people who are East at school are coming home for the holidays, and among those to arrive in the near future are Robert Sharon, Dudley Valentine, Harry Butters and Ernest Percy.

MISS BOWLES REACHES HOME.
Miss Amy Bowles has also returned for the summer vacation, having spent the past two years at school in New York City. Miss Bowles is a student at Miss Spence's school, one of the finest schools in the East, and a school in which many of New York's most prominent women have been educated. WEDDING OF MISS HAVENS.
Several hundred invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Marietta Havens and Mr. Paul Dinsmore, which will take place on the evening of the 24th of June. The ceremony at the church will be followed by a wedding supper and the formal reception at the Claremont Country Club, the bride going there as the drawing-room of the Havens, which is most artistic. Is too small for a wedding reception. All her friends are very sorry that Bertha Young is not coming from Honolulu for the wedding. She would have been one of the bridesmaids and many complimentary affairs would have been given for her.

BIG BERKELEY WEDDING.
One of the Berkeley weddings of note will be that of Mr. George Jones and Miss Ruth Green, which will take place at the home of the Adam Greens in Berkeley on next Tuesday. Already there is a family gathering at the home of the Greens in Berkeley. Mrs. Frederick Byxby has come from Southern California, bringing her two little daughters, Katherine and Elizabeth.

WILL VISIT MISS ISAACS

Miss Lillian Isaacs is to be the guest for two weeks of Miss Laura Sanborn at the delightful family home of the Sanborns in Fruitvale.

It is a most charming place, especially in the summer time, with its beautiful flowers and its quaint, old orchard. Mrs. Sanborn makes all her own friends, and the young friends of her daughter, most welcome, and some of the most delightful afternoons of the summer time are spent in the picturesque grounds of one of the most hospitable of family homes of Fruitvale.

The Isaacs are now comfortably established in Chicago, where Lillian Isaacs is already a great social favorite. They are great friends of the Krutchnits, who have done much in the way of introducing them to prominent Chicago people. The Isaacs have joined the Country Club in Chicago, and are very popular in many ways. Lillian Isaacs is a beautiful girl, and she has traveled extensively, thus adding to an exceptionally fine educational training.

MISS ATHERTON'S TRIUMPHS

Among the Californians who are attracting much attention abroad this year is Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, who is living in Munich. A new novel by Mrs. Atherton heads the fall list of books. The novel is called "The Gorgon Isle," and has for its subject the Isle of Nevis, British West Indies, which became half a century ago a fashionable winter resort for English people. Mrs. Atherton's novel is laid in this period, and the plot, which is thoroughly tropical in its setting, is said to be most original and unique.

DEATH OF MRS. SMITH.

News was received here this week of the sudden passing in Atlantic City of Mrs. Condit Smith, sister of Mrs. George E. Whitney.

Mrs. Whitney and Anita Whitney are in the East, having gone there to spend part of the summer with Mrs. Smith and with Ethel Whitney, whose home for some time now has been with her aunt.

Mrs. Condit Smith was one of the best known women in Washington. Her home was for many years with the late Justice and Mrs. Field, the latter being her sister.

Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Field, Mrs. Mc-

Creery and Mrs. Condit Smith were well known in the early days of San Francisco. They were the Swearingen girls, of a fine old Southern family, and they had a most attractive home.

Mrs. Whitney has made her home in Oakland for many years, and her sisters have often been her guests, though Mrs. McCreery's permanent home is now abroad.

Miss Sallie Swearingen married Colonel Condit Smith of Buffalo, and at his death came into possession of a large estate. When his daughters were all married, Miss Ethel Whitney went East to be with her aunt, and has spent the last two years in Washington.

The many friends of the Whitneys here sympathize greatly with them in the sorrow that has come in the loss of so dear a sister, and their trip East will be greatly saddened by this recent bereavement.

ACTIVITY IN THE CLUBS.

One is happy to say that, even though it is summer, the philanthropic activities of some of the clubs go steadily on, as indeed many of them need to do.

On June 20th the West Oakland Home will hold its annual fete at Idora Park, and the management is sending out an earnest plea for the support of the public. Just a little from each one of us would help out amazingly in the financial returns, and would bring a bit of brightness into the life of some forlorn little child.

Those who cannot go to Idora Park might send a little contribution, which would be greatly appreciated by any of the officers of the association—Mrs. I. A. Beretta, Mrs. H. B. Mehlmann, Mrs. W. A. Schrock, Miss Grace Trevor, Mrs. J. Walter Scott, Mrs. Charles Heeseman.

The Realty Syndicate, with the generosity for which it has become famous among us, has granted the home the privilege of establishing a camp in Trestle Glen, and the little ones will go into camp on June 18th.

The children are looking forward to the outing with the keenest joy, for a very great deal of outdoor life is not possible in any large asylum in a city. The children will have all the benefit of the great out-of-door world, and it is a joy to see the wild enthusiasm with which they look forward to the lovely summer days which camp life in the country will bring them.

One hopes the fete at Idora Park on Saturday will be most successful, and that money will pour in in such abundance that the hearts of the good managers may be made glad.

The Oakland Club will maintain its vacation school again this year, and Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, who made so great a success of the work last year, is to be again at the head of affairs.

The women of the Oakland Club are doing the work which should be done by the Board of Education. They are showing the need of the work, and are bravely leading the way, so they ought to be given all the assistance and encouragement possible.

Public school buildings and public playgrounds belong to the people, and the latter should have the use of them all the year round. In the East they have lovely roof gardens, where the dear "little mothers of the poor" bring the younger children and spend happy hours. And many of the schools are used at night for lecture rooms, making a center for neighborhood gatherings, helpful in the extreme.

The Oakland Club does an exceedingly good work in establishing a vacation school where it is most needed, and the little children and their tired mothers spent happy hours in the playgrounds last summer—in the large schoolyard, which was equipped with swings, hobby horses, croquet sets, baseballs, a football—everything which might make a child play—just what Nature meant him to do in the long afternoons.

CLOSING OF HIGH SCHOOL.

The closing of the school year brings always many events of much social interest. The teachers of the High School are planning a banquet next week, to be given at the Hotel Athens, with Mr. and Mrs. Pond as the guests of honor.

An occasion like that must be deeply gratifying to Mr. Pond, since it is an evidence of the most harmonious relations between a principal and his staff of assistants.

With the close of this school year, Principal Pond severs his connection with the school department and pushes forth into a new field of endeavor, and it is an encouragement for him to know that he carries with him the sincere friendship of those among whom he has worked so long, and their good wishes will do much to stimulate him to the further effort which makes for a life success.

The banquet for Mr. Pond will be one of the leading social dates of next week.

One of the happy surprises of High School days was the beautiful tribute paid Miss Harriet Corlies by her associate teachers in the High School. They remembered her birthday, and planned a graceful surprise for her, giving her a beautiful brass jardiniere, filled with superb carnations. It expressed their appreciation of her loyalty, of her conscientious effort, of her faithfulness to high ideals. All of these characteristics have made Miss Hattie Corlies one of the most successful teachers in the entire department, and one of the best loved.

Her birthday gift was a well deserved tribute, in which many others would most gladly have joined, for to her pupils, to her associate teachers, to those who have known her from early childhood, she has been a friend, devoted, loyal and true.

COMPLIMENTS TO BRIDE-ELECTS.

And still complimentary affairs go on for the many brides-elect, the social dates serving to vary the monotony of the summer days.

Miss Sevilla Hayden was the hostess on Thursday evening at an interesting bridge party, entertaining in honor of her friend, Miss Louise Hull, whose engagement to Mr. Harry Hays of Southern California was recently announced.

The Haydens have recently taken the house in which the Havens family lived, near Adams Point, and it is a charming place in which to entertain friends.

Miss Hayden's guests included for the most part intimate friends of the bride-elect, and the bridge party in the latter's honor was an informal and very delightful affair.

LUNCHEON FOR MRS. MITCHELL.

Mrs. George E. Perkins is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, and the latter was a guest of honor at a very delightful luncheon given this week at Mrs. Perkins' home in the East Oakland Heights.

Lieutenant Alexander Mitchell, one of the very able and popular lieutenants of the navy, is attached to the Colorado, which is expected to arrive soon in the harbor.

MATTHEWS GOING TO BROOKDALE.

Captain and Mrs. Joseph Matthews will leave next week for Brookdale, where they will be guests at D'u Allin, the country place of the Arthur Hollands.

Mrs. Holland is to entertain a family party this summer, among her guests being her mother, Mrs. Wade, and her sister, Mrs. Joseph Matthews, and Mrs. John Boyne.

OPENING THE COUNTRY HOMES.

Many country homes are now being opened and plans are fairly formulated for the summer. But while many people will be out of town, a great many more will stay at home, and there is a great deal to be said in favor of the good times of the stay-at-homes.

And first of all, you can do much as you please in the summer time. In the winter you must take your place in the social round; you must keep up with the progress of events and keep pace with your neighbors. You must do your share in charitable work, take your place at the bridge table, go to your club occasionally, return in your own home the social courtesies that have come your way.

Life is full of activities, and if one neglects many of them, one must reckon with a most troublesome conscience. But the strain is off in the summer and the "stay-at-home" has learned to have a very good time. Already hammocks beckon one from favorite vine-covered verandas, and chairs are out under big leafy trees.

There are lovely drives all through the hills, and those who have automobiles plan expeditions farther afield. In summer no one ever calls formally, but one brings a bit of dainty fancy work and spends friendly hours of a charming afternoon, and there is always the inspiring cup of tea to add interest to the late afternoon hours.

Among the many homes where pleasant summer afternoons are spent are the Fruitvale home of the Clays, the Sanborns, the Hushes and the picturesque home of Mrs. Wetherbee.

Miss Madeline Clay keeps up all the traditions of the family, and is never so happy as when her home is filled with her young friends.

Grace and Laura Sanborn entertain their friends in the quaint old garden, and for many summers now the Hushes have had a tent in the lawn, in which tea is served to their friends.

Mrs. Requa has the most ideal place among the big trees on the lovely grounds surrounding her home. The family call it "Chevy Chase," and it is wonderfully picturesque—a delightful place in which to entertain friends.

The R. G. Browns spend much of their summer out of doors, and one is very sure of a delightful cup of tea on Wednesday afternoon.

Louise and Emma Mahony are at the Hotel Athens, where their friends are sure of the most hospitable of greetings.

In Alameda Mrs. Warren Palmer and the Van Stickleons are at home to many friends, who find a cup of tea and a cordial welcome in the tranquil summer afternoons.

And so it goes, with much to interest the many "stay-at-homes," and after all, one can be happy anywhere, for it is Shakespeare who gives the keynote to life in the summer time, when he bids us all to bravely fare forth, finding "Sermons in Stones and good in everything."

MISS WOODWARD ENTERTAINS.

Miss Gwendolen Woodward was hostess Thursday at a luncheon entertaining a few of her classmates from Miss Horton's School. The children played hearts. Those present were: Misses Norma Dearborn, Grace Vander, Gladys Shaw, Carmen Girardelli, Helen Burton, Phyllis Westmore and Phyllis Woodward.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss Audrey Bear, the talented young pianiste, will appear next Wednesday evening at the musical to be given for St. Andrew's Church. She is an attractive girl with exceptional ability in music.

Mrs. Carl Rhodin is a frequent visitor in the bay cities and one of the brides of the season.

Mrs. Arthur Jordan Edwards, nee Dawson, is a bride of the week and was entertained a great deal before the pretty ceremony a few days ago.

Miss Agnes Tobin is one of the most gifted women in San Francisco society who has earned a place in the world of literature.

SOCIETY SMART SET

One of the unique events of the season was that held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Bliss on Tuesday, June 9, the occasion of their fifth wedding anniversary. The early part of the evening was given over to music and the following people participated: Paul Brown of Los Angeles, violinist; Freddie Bee, pianist; Desaix McCloskey gave two baritone solos, and Mrs. Brown sang two selections; W. N. Jenkins and Mr. Brown gave two short talks on the Sacramento C. E. convention, as all those present were interested.

The evening was then given over to fun and frolic, and Mr. and Mrs. Bliss gave the freedom of the entire place to their guests. One unique feature was a fish pond, where many amusing things were caught by the guests, who found after their fish were caught that they had also hooked their partners for the evening by their having similar fish.

A large tent was pitched in the rear of the house, where Miss Edna Davis, posed as a gypsy, told the fortunes of the happy couples. There was a sand pile representing a gold mine, and those who delved deep found many nuggets in toothsome delinquencies.

Ten uranian cakes were served on wooden platters and eaten around a large bonfire in the tent at the gold mine, in the house and wherever fancy dictated. The decoration scheme was followed

ANGELS WIN LONG GAME FROM SEALS

LONG'S MEN BLOW UP IN FOURTEENTH OAKLAND VINS GAME FROM THE BEAVERS

ANGELS WIN SPECTACULAR GAME FROM LONG'S TEAM

Seals and Dillonites Battle Fourteen Innings Before Los Angeles Finally Wins 5 to 2.

(By T. P. MAGILLIGAN.)

But for the ugly face of an error showing itself on the gloved hand of Third Baseman McArdle, yesterday's game of baseball at Recreation Park in San Francisco might have turned out one of the "contested" in our next column. As it was, it consumed fourteen innings, and from the torridness of the play one might well say "Three Weeks" of time. At the end of the thirteen brilliant innings the Los Angeles men tucked the game in their haversacks 5 to 2 and toted it home with them to baffle the mournful moments of Tom Berry and add a deeper and prouder red to the neckerchief of that very handsome gent.

Up to the fat fourteen the game was running along at "two all," and there was not the breadth of a microphone's tail difference in the playing of the men.

Fatal Fourteenth.

In the fourteenth, however, McArdle's thick tank, working under too high a pressure, exploded and he made an error that shot away the mizzanzen and top-sail of the Seal chances and Long's men went down to defeat, all hands aboard.

When the fourteenth inning started, the fans like Wellington on that bygone Waterloo day, were praying for darkness, or something to put an end to the long and equal battle. They didn't have long to wait. With Nagle in the can on the three strike round, Ellis cracked out a single. Then Delmas, who was trying to destroy the rightfield fence all afternoon, was given a stroll on the big four route. Following this fastidiously shot an easy one to McArdle. Mack was so full of "eggs-tentment" that he let the pellet hurdle around his feet, and by the time he finally dug the sphere from an untimely end by being stamped to death the catcher was on first and telling Perrine what a handsome gent he was. Then it was up to Dolly Gray. Dolly took a couple of odd swings at the leather, looked a few one square in the visages and retired. Had McArdle grabbed Easterly's easy chance the side would have been out, but as chivalry in the foregoing, McArdle let the pellet slip from him. Then Jones walked, Bernard, forcing Ellis across with a run.

Oakes was called upon by Cap Dillon to break it up. The center-fielder is a very obliging chap and, rather than Herpington his manager, he poked one into right field on which Easterly and Delmas took home.

And all this was the result of that one little error of McArdle's.

The Entente Cordiale.

When Mack passed Danny Long on the way to the bench both were speechless, and the massive face of the big third sacker was pulsating with a low throbbing sound like the engines in a tug boat. Long's frontierspiece was redder than Tom Berry's celebrated necktie.

As McArdle sat down his feet exploded with a low hissing sound, and when he finally eased himself into the hardest spot on the bench his pallid face twitched like a mount of calf's foot jelly, but the distance was so great that one could not be sure whether these symptoms were due to remorse or swallowing some loose chewing tobacco.

As a pitcher's battle and holding affair the game was one of the prettiest the writer has seen in years. Ginger was on tap all the time. Both teams tensed and strained every muscle to win, and so palpitation and exciting was the game that Danny Long swallowed the stem of his sixty-cent cigarwood without noticing the disappearance of that useful appendage to a pipe.

Angels Get 15 Hits.

In the matter of hits the Angels eluded Jones for fifteen, the main belt of which was Delmas' home run over the right-field fence. Gray fared somewhat better and allowed only eleven hits. Both pitchers kept the hits well scattered, however, which accounts for the length of the game.

Jones walked just two men and Gray allowed a similar number of passes. Bert, however, had the better of his opponent in the matter of strike-outs. He fanned nine, as against six for Dolly.

During the afternoon five lightning-like double plays were pulled off. The Angels got away with two of these, while the Seals placed three of them to their credit.

A Desperate Effort.

The Seals made a desperate effort to tally in the opener. Hildebrand opened the pitcher's box with a single, got around as far as third, but took too many liberties and was called out.

In the next, with only one gone, Curtis reached third on his own hit, his steal of second and Easterly's overthrow, but McArdle and Berry could do nothing for their sister's comrade and he failed to reach home. In the thirteenth the Seals had another chance, but they let it go glimmering.

The Seals made their two tallies of the game in the seventh on singles by Henley, Zeller, and Curtis and a double by Henley and Zeller.

The Angels got one in the seventh on Dillon's double and Brashear's sacrifice, coupled with a wild pitch by Jones.

In the eighth period Jones floated on a right up to the nose of Delmas but that obnoxious gentleman lifted the pellet over the right-field fence. It was a noble wallop of sound proportions, good form and city broke.

After the eighth there was nothing stirring for either side until the fatal fourteenth, when happening as chivalry in the foregoing took place. The score:

McGarry Defeats Johnny Frayne

NEW YORK, June 13.—Amby McGarry, the pride of the Bronx, defeated Johnny Frayne, the little San Francisco scrapper, in a six round bout here last night. Frayne was very clever and made a good showing. The fact that it was his first important appearance in the East made him a bit nervous and this accounted to a certain extent for his defeat.

McGarry's punches seemed to lack the steam that were back of the blows landed by McGarry. In the fourth round McGarry sent Frayne to the floor, but the latter got up cool and collected and won well in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

Bowman's Doplita does it safely and easily as washing one's hands.

BREEZY TURF GOSSIP

Complete results on the Latoria and Hamilton races are printed in THE TRIBUNE evening sporting edition.

The indications are that from twenty to twenty-five horses will cut in the first day at the Meadows.

Jockey Andy Minder, who is well known on the coast, was badly injured while schooling a horse at Latoria the other day.

Official Caller Billy Murray, accompanied by his wife, sailed for Seattle today.

Watch THE TRIBUNE on the Seattle races. It will give you the real dope.

Sidney Murray, a brother of Starter William Murray, is starting the horses at the Louisiana merry-go-round in New Orleans.

An unnamed 2-year-old colt by Kingston, a full brother to King's Cavalier, will be sent to England from Meadowbrook farm, Kentucky, to be trained for racing, but incidentally on account of his relationship he may be sold.

Commence Richard Dwyer, handicapper Martin Nathanson and President J. E. C. Hopper have arrived at Seattle.

Frank Skinner called on the Governor yesterday for Seattle. Mr. Skinner will represent the Pacific Jockey Club at Rutte, Montana.

The Saunal to poolrooms lost a big bunch of coin to the win of Chatterbox at Graceland this morning. The third race at Hamilton yesterday.

Handicapper Will Hall, accompanied by his wife, sailed for Seattle yesterday.

Ed Trotter and family were among year.

Longboat Beats His Own Record

MONTREAL, June 13.—Tom Longboat, who has hopes of being the principal Canadian runner at the Olympic games, at the A. A. U. will accept the entry, ran around the mountain course yesterday afternoon in a trial against five local runners running the relay. Longboat won easily in 12:08, clipping 2:47 off the record held by himself and made last November. Longboat sailed for England this morning.

CHIT-CHAT OF THE GAME

BY T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

Cal Ewing has at last taken the State League seriously and has begun a sort of a tea pot war against that organization. Yesterday Danny Long made the announcement that Jimmy Whalen had been secured for the Seals and in return the "Whalens" will wear a Seal instead of a Cordova uniform. When Whalen jumped the State League he belonged to the Williamsport team of the Tri-State League in Pennsylvania. Long recently made arrangements with that club for the services of Whalen and the latter has accepted terms. It appears that Ewing has intentions of breaking up the Sacramento team so that when a Coast League team is started the "Whalens" will wear a Seal instead of a Cordova uniform. BUY AT HOME
"Patronize Home Industry" will be the slogan drilled into the residents of Oakland by the publicity committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce during the next six months. In every day on the inter-city service there will be a large placard setting forth the advantages of Oakland as a shopping center and urging the residents to buy on this side of the bay. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the board of directors of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

Los Angeles county held an exhibit in August, 1907, of products which were of local manufacture and instilled into the public the policy of "Buying at Home." Over 200 manufacturers were represented, and Oakland may profit by the same plan. Over 200 manufacturing concerns are located here and these are deserving of your support.

Boost for Oakland
Consider the value of these factories and jobbing institutions. Call for the brands they handle. Build up home industry. Don't send to San Francisco or East for products that are made here. By installing upon home products you are building up your own industry, giving employment to your own friends and relatives and increasing your own property values.

There are 38,000 mechanics in Oakland and that means 10,000 good homes well cared for and thousands of happy children and bright faces, getting an education. Glance over the list and see what is being made in your line. Scarcely an article of household commodity or consumption in your business affairs but that it is made here on found at your local wholesalers or jobbers.
